VOL. XVII. NO. 29. TOLEDO, OHIO, MONDAY MAY 30, 1892. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS.

CHARGE IT TO HISCOCK.

Not Believed that Depew Wrote the Famous Letter.

Washington, May 30.—A letter said to have been received in this city yesterday, is the subject of considerable discussion, some of which, according to the publications this morning, so far as can be learned, is quite misleading.

The published statements are to the effect that Chauncey M. Depew, of the New York delegation, had written a letter not only detailing the strength which Mr. Harrison has in the New York delegation, but also giving assurances that there are 50 men in the delegation who would not vote for Blaine even if he were an avowed candidate.

There is no authority for the statement that such a letter has been received from Mr. Depew; the probabilities are that it came from Senator Hiscock if from any one and its contents reiterates what has long been known to be his sentiments several times expressed in public.

THAT GRANT-CONKLING LETTER.

St. Louis, May 30.—A correspondent of the Republic interviewed Mr. Emerson McMillin, president of the Laclede Gas company, of St. Louis, in regard to the Grant-Conkling letter. Among other things he said: "I received a telegram from Mr. Bricknell of Columbus, last Sunday, asking for the address of Mrs. Page or Mr. Page's executor. Mr. Page may have given the letter away during his last illness, at which time he did dispose of many such souvenirs. If this is the case, and it fell into the hands of a Harrison man, it will probably not come to light just at this time. I never thought of doubting its genuineness. I think it sounds very much like Gen. Grant's style. It is conceded by many that he wrote a letter of similar import to Don. Cameron. Would he not have been much more likely to have spoken his mind to Conkling, his close friend?"

Mr. McMillin is a republican and a prominent member of the Loyal Legion.

THE MOTHER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

In New York city alone over 100,000 children die every summer. This is all wrong; it is all needless.

The greater number of these deaths are caused by improper care and food. Fully half of these deaths could have been prevented had lactated food been known and used. This pure substitute for mother's milk brings the little one back to strength and health, and keeps the child happy and hearty.

N. B. Stevens, of Oberlin, who recently deserted his wife, and eloped with her sister, has returned and is under arrest.

Memorial Proceedings in Various Places

Gathered from the Wires for Bee Readers.

Chicago Outdoes Herself and Celebrates Decoration Day in a Fitting Manner — Mention from Leading Cities of the Land.

Chicago, May 30.—Decoration day was celebrated in this city on even a more general scale than in previous years. Early this morning the various posts decorated the graves of thier lost comrades in the suburban cemeteries, and the general public, men, women and children, also paid tribute to the memory of their dead in a similar manner and on a very large scale.

Later in the day there was a grand parade comprising the Grand Army of the city and vicinity, the troops from Fort Sheridan, the militia regiments located in the city, the independent companies, and the various civic societies. The parade was reviewed by Gen. Miles, Mayor Washburne and representative citizens.

The ex-Confederate association celebrated the day with a large turn-out, and a fine floral display, to the latter of which nearly all the southern people residing in the city made contributions. There was a large gathering at Oakwoods cemetery, where, under the auspices of the city camps of the United Confederate veterans, the graves of the 6,000 confederate soldiers who died at Camp Douglas prision were strewn with flowers.

A large number of Union soldiers also rest in Oakwoods, and the graves of these were just as lavishly decorated by the ex-confederates. The confederate monument erected to the memory of the southern soldiers who died in this city was also dedicated, although not quite completed. The shaft is of southern granite 30 feet in height, and surmounted by the figure of a soldier.

MARYLAND.

Sons of the American Revolution Celebrate the Day.

Annapolis, Md., May 30.—The Maryland and Washington societies of the Sons of the American Revolution celebrated Decoration day with a reunion in this city.

The exercises took place in the senate chamber rendered memorable by the fact that within its walls Gen. Washington resigned his commission, and the proceedings were participated in by many eminent men.

Among them were John Lee Carroll, Admiral J. E. Jewett, Gen. A. W. Greeley, the noted Arctic explorer, Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, and Commander F. W. Dickens. Several patriotic speeches were delivered, and the musical exercises were rendered by the Daughters of the Revolution and the colonial dames.

The United States Cadets gave a drill and a sham battle, and afterwards a lunch was served on board the United States steamer, Constellation.

JOHNSTOWN.

Mourning for the Citizen as Well as the Soldier Dead.

Johnstown, Pa., May 30.—To-morrow will be the third anniversary of the Conemaugh valley flood, and to-day is therefore, being observed both in honor to the dead soldiers and in mourning for the thousands who were lost in that calamity. Memorial services will be held this afternoon in several places of worship.

KILBURN KNOX.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 30.—A monument to the memory of the late Gen. Kilburn Knox, for many years governor of the Soldiers' home, of this city, was formally unveiled here to-day in the Central Cemetery. The event was preceded by a procession of Grand Army veterans, citizens and children of the public schools.

MORE MONEY.

Washington, May 30.—The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill has been reported back and placed on the house calendar. It appropriates $21,683,752, being $1,070,286 less than the estimates and a reduction of $458,122 from the appropriations for the same purposes for the current fiscal year. The bill provides for the abolition of the Utah commission which consists of five members at a salary of $5,000 each.

MONUMENT TO LYONS.

Notre Dame, Ind., May 30.—A monument to the memory of the late Professor Joseph A. Lyons, who for 35 years held the chairs of English literature and Latin in the Notre Dame university and was well known as a dramatist and author, was unveiled here to-day. Members of the alumnae of Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and other states were present to a total of several hundred.

THE FAIR ON SUNDAY.

Workingmen Want to See the Show,

And They Can't Do It on Week Days.

The American Federation of Labor Takes Important Action on the Subject.

New York, May 30.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor to-day issues an address to the labor unions of all kinds in the United States opposing the closing of the world's fair on the Sabbath day. The address says among other things:

A movement has been started by some well-intentioned people seeking to influence congress to order that the world's fair in Chicago in 1893 shall be closed on Sundays. As American citizens, as wage-workers, we maintain that congress would exceed its powers should it undertake to legislate upon questions of this character; that the government of the United States is non-sectarian. As a matter of fact the days the wage-workers will have the best opportunity to visit the world's fair will be on Sundays. A visit to the world's fair, an examination of the product of the genius of man, cannot tend to demoralize or deprave.

A visit to the exposition and a view of the arts and handicrafts of the peoples of all nations can only tend to ennoble the visitor, enlarge the sphere of his intelligence and broaden his sympathetic nature. There is no idea nor thought for the desecration of the Sabbath, but we insist that congress shall refrain from legislating upon a subject entirely foreign to its sphere. The toiling masses have not so much leisure time that they can afford to have this wonderful exposition closed to them upon one of the days in the week which will give them the best opportunity to visit it. Those of our fellow workers coming from distant cities, or even those in the city of Chicago and the surrounding country, will of necessity count Sundays as a part of the time they desire to devote to visiting the fair.

Attached to the address are copies of a petition to congress with space for attaching 100 signatures. Fifty thousand of these are to be distributed over the country. The petition says: "We do not think it right or wise, even if it be allowed under our constitution, that the United States congress impose conditions either as to keeping or closing Sundays the World's Columbian Exposition to be held in 1893. The question touches too closely upon religious observances and the rights of the individual man, and we respectfully protest against it.

"A visit to the exposition, and a view of the arts and handicrafts of the people of the world, can only tend to ennoble the visitor, enlarge his intelligence and broaden his sympathetic nature, whether such visit be made on Sunday or any day of the week. Should the exposition be closed on Sunday, to many of us its advantages would be entirely lost; and we respectfully submit that the deprivation would fall most heavily upon those who most need the great benefits that the exposition is so well calculated to furnish."

THE EMPEROR'S HAREM.

"139 Unfortunates Held Captive in the Palace at Pekin."

The "Palace of Earth's Repose" is where the Empress of China holds her court and rules over the imperial harem, whose only glimpse of the outside world is what they can see in the imperial flower-gardens. The present young emperor, in addition to his seven lawful concubines, has already no less than one hundred and thirty others in his harem.—H. O'Shea's article, in the Illustrated American. Such is the life of the most highly favored of Chinese women—prisoners within the palace walls they eke out an existence in real slavery. American women know no slavery but that which depends on themselves. Sometimes they are overworked, "run-down," weak and ailing—then is the time to turn to the right medicine. The one who takes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription emancipates herself from her weakness and becomes a stronger and a happier woman—more than that—a healthy one. For all the weaknesses and ailments peculiar to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a positive remedy. And because it's a certain remedy, it's made a guaranteed one. If it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, you get your money back. Can you ask more?

A REAL IRISH VILLAGE

To Be Exhibited, Among Other Monuments of Erin, at the Wrold's Fair.

Chicago, May 30.—Hon. William J. Onahan has received a letter from the Countess of Aberdeen bespeaking a fitting reception for Peter White, of Dublin, who has arrived in this country to represent the Irish Industries association in connection with a national exhibit at the World's Fair. The exhibit will include specimens of the various hand-made work and cottage industries of the Emerald Isle, as well as the great poplin and linen products. It is desired to show a real Irish village, with its characteristic features, and along with reproductions of some of the famous monuments, Donegal Castle, the Round Towers and the Parliament House of College Green.

Mrs. Earnest Hart, who had proposed a separate Irish exhibit, will, it has been decided, co-operate with that represented by Mr. White.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND CANADA.

Some of Their Troubles in a Fair Way to be Settled.

Montreal, May 30.—The British government being heartily tired of the constant difficulties with Newfoundland has intimated to the Canadian government that it would tend to smooth over many differences if the colony could be induced to enter the Canadian confederation. With this view negotiations are now on foot but nothing has yet been officially made public. Several attempts have already been made to induce Newfoundland to enter the confederation, but they have failed. In 1869 a conference was held between the Privy Council of Canada and delegates from Newfoundland, at which a basis of union was drawn up. Nothing ever came of the proposals, but now they are to be renewed, and there is a very general feeling that the negotiations will be successful.

The leading merchants who are interested in the Newfoundlond trade are in favor of the scheme, as they believe it would do away with all the differences which have been a serious inconvenience to the trade.

ECHOES FROM THE STORM

Great Damage Done in the State of Kansas.

People Excited While Dodging Twisters.

A Review of the Disaster Wrought by the Fierce Winds Which Swept Over the State.

Wellington, Ks., May 30.—The fire was completely subdued in the ruins of the Alliance Exchange Saturday night. The volunteer firemen fought the flames like Trojans.

The garments of one caught fire in a vain effort to reach and rescue the unfortunate women that were being cremated, and he came within the ace of losing his life, as he was at one time completely wrapped in a sheet of fire. The women were Mrs. Asher and her sister, Miss Kate Strahn. They cried piteously for aid and their screaming so maddened Mr. Asher, the young husband, that he made an effort to jump into the flames, and die beside the woman who was his bride only four months ago, but was prevented. When he heard that the scorched body of his wife and sister-in-law were at last taken from the ruins his mind became unbalanced, and at last accounts he was absolutely mad.

The bodies were burned to such an extent that it was futile to attempt to dress them, for by a simple touch of the finger the skin would slip from the flesh.

The following is a complete list of the dead up to last night: James Hastie, horseman; Frank B. Campbell, horseman; James Mayer, Kansas City, piano tuner; Ida Jones, waitress; T. N. Cornell, Bellplaine, Ks., farmer; Hart Upson, barber.

These were all killed in the Phillips' house. The dead are: Ed Forsythe, barber; L. Adamson, barber; Mrs. Wm. Asher, Miss Kittie Strahn.

The gas company announced their plant injured to such an extent that it would be impossible for them to furnish gas. In consequence the city was in darkness last night. Special policemen were sworn in large numbers, and by this means the citizens were insured against any species of outlawry.

More Storms.

Wellington, Kan., May 30.—When the Wichita excursion crowd came in during the early afternoon, Saturday, its members reported that a bulletin had been posted by the Eagle that the conditions were favorable for another tornado at 4 o'clock. At that hour a dense cloud came up over the southern horizon, which was heavily charged with electricity and great alarm spread among the people. This alarm was increased to the wildest terror when four or five men came rushing into the main street, shouting to the multitude that a cyclone was approaching and to fly for places of safety.

A small but fully developed twister was seen traveling rapidly in a northwestern direction. This increased the excitement and terror. The alarm subsided somewhat in a few minutes when the dense cloud passed over and was followed by sunshine again.

The cyclone passed northwest about a mile west of Corbin. It did no damage so far as heard from, in that vicinity at least. Another cyclone originating in the territory was seen west of Caldwell, but it was very small and did not touch ground. A farmer reports a cloud-burst at South Haven in this (Sumner) county. The rainfall is said to have been terrible, but no news of the damage has been received.

Great Damage.

Wichita, Kan., May 30.—The storm belt at Harper was six miles wide. A. Beatty, a farmer living one mile north, had all his fine buildings destroyed. His wife's thigh was broken and his little daughter, Minnie, received a severe scalp wound.

S. H. Challis and wife each had an arm broken and their house was scattered to the winds.

In the town of Harper, James Dickinson was knocked down at the "Red Barn" and badly bruised.

S. E. Cole received a slight injury.

M. R. Corby was considerably hurt by the falling of the Masonic block.

Peter Girard, a boy, received a severe wound in the leg.

Mrs. A. Frey was caught in the ruins of her residence and received a slight wound.

M. Lebrecht's legs were broken in two places.

Miss Florence Sayers was struck by flying debris and remained insensible for an hour. Mrs. Felrath, living west of town, was brought in this morning severely injured.

Gottlieb Hahardlan, living two miles northeast, were seated at the supper table. They were carried 100 feet by the wind. Mr. Hahardlan received a wound in the foot. The house of M. M. Yanger, north of town, was blown down over the family, bruising them considerably but not seriously.

Ellis Miller and family, two miles southwest, narrowly escaped with their lives. His new house, the result of nine years' savings, was crushed flat. A very miraculous escape was that of J. H. Seibert and wife. They were in the upper story of the Thompson block when the walls tumbled, and they escaped with few bruises. Both public school buildings were badly injured, one being a total loss. The Catholic and German churches were demolished and the Baptist and Christian churches were greatly injured.

The Masonic block, the Queen City block and the opera house block are almost worthless. At least a hundred houses were completely wrecked.

Reports from the country around through which the tornado of Friday night passed demonstrate the loss to be greater than at first reported. The course of the storm as indicated by its trail represents an imperfect letter "S," and it swept in that form a distance of at least fifteen miles. In Garden Plains township two brothers were picked up and carried a distance of 200 yards and let down almost side by side. One of them was badly injured by the fall, while the other escaped without a scratch.

Nothing escaped the storm's fury, and the great damage is not only done to houses and crops and trees, but thousands of dollars' worth of stock has been killed and injured. The nucleus of the tornado began forming a few miles west of here at 6:30, and for over an hour the clouds moved about in great agitation, having a northwestern tendency. At 7:40 the tornado assumed its characteristic shape and at once commenced its work of destruction, leaving ruin and devastation in its trail. It struck this city a regular broadside. Its greatest force was in the northern portion, where the destruction is complete.

PORT WINE A DRUG.

Too Much of It on Sale in London to Keep Up the Prices.

London, May 30.—A great sale of port wine in London this week, the biggest on record, has not produced such prices as were anticipated. It was thought that 10,000 pipes would fetch about £40 a pipe, producing a total of £400,000. The prices hitherto secured, however, are about 30 or 40 per cent below the estimate, and it is not thought the sale will produce more than £250,000.

The decline in the price is attributed to the fact that 1,600 pipes were disposed of at a sale last week, and that the market has, therefore, been to a certain extent forestalled. The magnitude of this sale may be gathered from the fact that the 10,000 pipes, which covered acres of ground at the docks, are equal to 7,000,000 bottles.

HOT POLITICS.

Some Combinations that May Be Hard to Pocket.

St. Marys, O., May 30.—(Special)—The political situation in this—the Fourth judicial district—is about the hottest ever known in the democratic ranks.

The first step was publicly taken three weeks ago at Sidney, at the congressional convention, when Hon. F. C. Layton was enthusiastically and by acclamation nominated for congress.

This will be followed by the nomination of the Hon. James H. Day, present common pleas judge for the circuit court, to succeed Hon. T. C. Beers, who is to be quietly put aside. Auglaize county, in consideration of the selection of W. T. Mooney, of this city, for common pleas judge, and Allen county, in consideration of Judge Richie being supported for the next vacancy on the circuit bench, come in with solid ranks to the support of the two judicial nominations, and the Hon. G. Saltzgaber, of Van Wert county, to support the circuit court branch of a combine, that is claimed to exist, under the delusion that he is to be the nominee for common pleas judge. The question now arises: Who is to be the nominee for common pleas judge—Mooney or Saltzgaber? The outcome is awaited with interest.

BRYAN NOTES.

Social and Personal Gossip of General Interest.

Bryan, O., May 30.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Johnson are here from Kentucky and may remain during the summer.

The annual commencement of Bryan schools was held in the opera house Thursday night. The house was filled and the floral decorations were very lovely. Attorney J. H. Schrider delivered the address and presented the diplomas to the graduates—the Misses Nellie Bucklew, Hettie Barr and Anna Grass.

Rolla Tressler is here from Chicago visiting his parents.

Mrs. Maud Bacon visits friends in Edgerton Sunday.

Sheriff Bailey was in Cleveland Thursday on business.

A musical institute will be organized in Bryan next Monday night by Prof. Eugene Davis.

Mrs. W. J. Wallace visited the family of Noah Nihart, at Edgerton, over Sunday.

CLAIMED FOR BEN.

The Herald Says Harrison is in the Lead for Votes.

New York, May 30.—The Herald, in order, as it says, "to make light the dark places," sent to every delegate-at-large to the Minneapolis convention a telegram as follows:

"Will you kindly wire how your delegation stands for choice for president; whether in favor of restricted or unrestricted coinage, or high or low tariff?"

Replies to the above, printed by the Herald, shows that Mr. Harrison will have 366 delegates, Mr. Blaine 265, Mr. Alger 28, with one original McKinley man from Montana. This leaves in the doubtful list 238 delegates, and it is from these that Mr. Harrison must get the 84, or Blaine the 185 votes which are necessary to secure the much-coveted prize.

On the questions of platform there seems to be an almost unanimous opinion. Not a delegate apparently opposes the republican doctrine of high tariff, while the unlimited coinage of silver men are able to muster only 73 delegates out of the 898 of which the convention is composed.

BEATS FICTION.

The Wild Ride of a Negro Ravisher

To Escape Death by Mobs of Lynchers.

Plucky Officers Keep Their Man Out of the Reach of the Crowd by Very Clever Work.

New York, May 30.—A special to the Press from Morristown, Tenn., says that Charles Weems, the negro charged with attempting to assault a white woman at Chattanooga, on May 19, is in jail at that place. Weems was arrested after the alleged assault and jailed at Chattanooga.

The next night a mob captured the jail, only to find that Weems had been spirited away. His whereabouts were unknown until located in Nashville, 24 hours later. The mob spirit became rampant and a second riot followed in the capital city, in which a dozen men were hurt, one seriously. A fire engine was sent whirling through the streets to draw the crowd from the jail but it did not work. The police forced the crowd back, while Weems, in the garb of the jail cook, boldly walked out and joined the officers at the depot.

Then began a race that outclassed anything this state, and probably any other, has ever seen. Weems was taken to Guthrie, Ky., but was compelled to leave in an hour to avoid a mob. The telegraph operators along the railroads joined in and as far as possible kept the towns ahead informed.

Weems was taken to Clarksville at night. A mob surrounded the jail at midnight. Weems and Jailer Held and Deputy Sheriff Pillar, of Chattanooga, all heavily-armed with cocked revolvers, marched through the crowd to the depot. The train was fired on at every station on the way back to Nashville. Late as it was, armed men paced the station platforms and made ugly threats.

Nashville reached, the officials refused to take Weems. A start was made for Chattanooga, but not before 25 armed men had come aboard and announced their intention of staying by Weems until lynched. Every town along the route furnished menacing crowds, and guns were thrust through the car windows. At Tullahoma a thousand people stood on the track and stopped the train. Thomas Carpenter, the leading citizen made an eloquent address and the lynching was postponed.

Chattanooga had been informed of Weems coming and a mob had gone out to Wauhachie, six miles from the city, to lynch him. The officers heard of it at Hooker and while the train was running 20 miles an hour Weems was thrown off the car, the officers jumping after, followed by four armed men, who were captured, disarmed and tied to trees, while the trio took to the mountains, tramping for 18 hours over Raccoon and Lookout mountains, fording streams and plunging through forests in the blackest night to Ooltewah, Ga. All through the night they heard their pursurers and saw their torches. At Ooltewah, which was reached at daybreak, they took a train for Knoxville, which was reached in the forenoon. Weems was denied admission to the jail, as he had been at Lebanon, Athens, Cleveland and other points and was brought to this place where he was locked up.

In five days he traveled over 1,000 miles; saw over 200 mobs ready to lynch him, was refused admission to a score of jails, was attacked in three, went 24 hours without food, during which time he traveled 25 miles over the worst mountains in the state, was thrown from a train, was shot at, visited three states, and was so near two others that he could see them. If the story could be told in all its details of a strategems, narrow escapes, exciting encounters, wild rides, lonely walks and agonies of suspense, it would out-novel a novel. Weems claims the women met him by appointment.

A DESPERADO AT BAY.

Ben Floyd, the Train Robber, Backs Up And Eludes His Pursuers—Jumps from a Railroad Bridge Into the Suwanee River.

Palatka, Fla., May 30.—Ben Floyd, the train robber, who so mysteriously escaped from the posse at Buffalo Bluff when Williams and King were killed, was lynched from at White Springs, on the Georgia Southern & Florida railway, 75 miles north of here. He had eluded the vigilance of scores of searchers, and turned up there, leaping from the railroad bridge into the Suwanee river just as a steaming engine with Superintendent Myers and Sheriff Anderson Kurtz hove in sight.

As the locomotive approached the bridge leading to town a man was seen on the structure who looked like Floyd. They prepared to run him down, and when within 100 yards of him he threw up his hands, shook his fist at the approaching engine, and with a shout jumped into the river.

The engine came back to town and bloodhounds were wired for. In two hours eight hounds and a large posse were in pursuit. The blood-hounds took the trail quickly, but Floyd was not caught. He entered a house at midnight. The inmates fled in alarm. He blackened his face and hands and rushed through the guards as a negro. He went southward and the posse is on trail again.

Superintendent Myers, of the Southern express, reached Geneva to-night, with his posse. He says he has Floyd now entirely surrounded in Hammock swamp, six miles from Geneva.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Indignant Citizens Procure the Release

Of an Editor Unjustly Imprisoned.

The Court Wanted to Learn the Name of One of the Paper's Correspondents.

Nassau, N. P., May 30.—On Saturday, the 14th inst., a letter appeared in the Nassau Gaurdian over the signature of "Colonist," which Chief Justice Yelverton considered of such a character as to require notice at his hands, and he therefore, on Monday last, addressed a private note to Mr. A. E. Moseley, the editor of the Guardian, asking his attendance at the judge's chambers.

Upon the arrival of the editor, he was informed by the chief justice that he considered the letter of such a serious nature that he should demand the name of the author, as the same was in contempt of his court, and if he did not give it up he would imprison him. Mr. Moseley said he would require time for consideration, and the latter wrote a courteous note declining to reveal the author's name.

Mr. Moseley was then served with a summons to appear before Judge Yelverton at 10:30 o'clock on the next day to answer for contempt of court. At the sitting of the court His Honor asked Moseley if he had anything to say. Mr. Moseley requested an adjournment of 10 days to advise with counsel. The application was refused.

The chief justice then proceeded to deliver judgment at length, and at the conclusion sentenced Mr. Moseley to be imprisoned during the pleasure of the court, and to pay a fine of £40 for publishing, to pay a fine of £25 for additional contempt in refusing to surrender the name of the author, to remain in prison until the fines were paid, and to pay all costs in the proceedings.

Mr. Moseley, having protested against the harshness of the sentence, was conducted to prison. The result of this action was electrical, the entire community being aroused to a high pitch of excitement. Business was suspended, and a deputation composed of about fifty-four of the leading citizens at once waited upon His Excellency, the governor, Sir Ambrose Shea, and requested Mr. Morseley's release at his hands.

A public meeting was held in the Masonic hall to express sympathy with Mr. Moseley. The meeting was large, representative and enthusiastic.

About 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon it was announced that the governor had ordered Mr. Moseley's release, and the scene that ensued was remarkable. Flags were displayed, people paraded the streets, cheering and giving vent to their feelings of joy, and there was presently a general movement in the direction of the prison to witness Mr. Moseley's formal release. Mr. Moseley appeared through the prison gates, accompanied by his wife, the Rev. R. T. Bailey, M. A., Mr. J. S. Darling and other friends, and entered a carriage, when there ensued a tremendous outburst of enthusiasm.

The horses were removed from the carriage, ropes were attached and scores of people, headed by a band and the British ensign, dragged the vehicle along, while the whole mass of people, some in carriages and some on foot, formed a procession which moved off amid shouts, cheers and wild cries of delight to Mr. Moseley's residence on East Hill street. Along the entire route of the procession there was a perfect ovation.

On Thursday at 10:30 o'clock the court was again convened, and the chief justice announced that on account of the action taken by the executive in the matter he would adjourn the court.

THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

It is Wholly at Fault for Italy's Financial Embarrassment.

Paris, May 30.—The Matin publishes an interview between its correspondent at Rome and Signor Cavalotti, in which the signor ascribes the financial difficulties of Italy to the triple alliance.

Signor Cavalotti also states that it will be useless to attempt to improve the finances of the country until Italy is divorced from the alliance.

The general feeling in Paris is that the crisis in Italy foreshadows the rupture of the triple alliance. The subject is everywhere discussed, with eagerness and King Humbert is blamed for not giving way to the manifest wishes of his subjects by causing an immediate dissolution of parliament and giving the people a chance to be heard. The French press and public are almost at fever heat in their anxiety to see the alliance broken up by Italy's withdrawal.

BELFAST LOYALISTS.

They Would Not Live Under Irish Home Rule.

Belfast, May 30.—The Belfast Telegraph publishes an editorial five columns in length, detailing the plan of the Ulster loyalists for passive resistance to the Dublin parliament in the event of home rule being granted to Ireland.

The loyalists will ignore the enactments of the parliament and refuse to pay any taxes which it may attempt to levy. They will not take part in any elections of members of a Dublin parliament and will recognize only the laws as they will exist at the time of the enactment of a home rule bill.

The loyalists will be bound closely together by pledges for mutual support and will defend their rights if necessary against public aggression.

BLAINE BULLDOZED

Into Writing His Letter of Withdrawal.

President Harrison Demanded It of Him.

So Says One of Blaine's Personal Friends,

But He Thinks That the Secretary Would Accept

If Nominated by the Republican Convention—If He Is Not Nominated He Will Pose as a Martyr for His Party.

Chicago, May 30.—A Tribune special from Detroit says:

Capt. Wm. A. Gavett, for more than twenty years one of Mr. Blaine's most confidential friends and trusted political advisers, last night gave one of the most important contributions to the political literature yet made during this campaign. Of Mr. Gavett's standing with and understanding of Mr. Blaine's feelings and wishes there is not the slightest question. During Mr. Gavett's recent visit to Washington he saw Mr. Blaine daily, and with him discussed every phase of the political situation.

"I have long realized," said Capt. Gavett last night, "that some one of Blaine's trusted friends should put before the public the inside facts relative to his so-called withdrawal letter. While I do not propose to quote Mr. Blaine, nor claim to have his authority to do so, I state upon my own responsibility, based upon the most reliable information intrusted to me, that Mr. Blaine only wrote the letter upon the urgent request, in fact, the demand of the president, after mature consideration.

"While the letter was not what the president wanted, it was all Mr. Blaine would consent to grant. It did not say that the president ought to be renominated or express a preference for any other candidate. It did not say anything about Mr. Blaine's health and it did not say that Mr. Blaine would decline the nomination provided the convention in its wisdom saw fit to select him. None of these omissions from there were accidental. Had Mr. Blaine refused to stand aside upon the urgent demand of his immediate superior officer, the president, Mr. Blaine's self-respect, if nothing else, would have forced him to retire from the cabinet, a position which he did not care a rap for.

"It would then have been announced that there was a split in the republican party. Contests would have followed in every district and state convention and if a majority of the delegates had been selected in favor of Blaine the president and his friends might have claimed that he had not been given an opportunity to which he had been entitled by reason of his position. Now the delegates have been chosen without the interference or influence of Blaine.

"Hence it will be at once realized, when these facts are considered that Mr. Blaine's magnanimity in consenting to stand aside and let the president secure the nomination if he could has saved the party from possible disruption and paved the way to victory, although the sacrifice Mr. Blaine made seemed at the time to have robbed himself of the great honor he has so richly earned. I give it as my best judgment that Mr. Blaine will accept the nomination in the grandest letter ever written by an American statesman."

LORD DUNLO.

The Earl of Clancarty, Belle Bilton's Husband, in Debt.

London, May 30.—The earl of Clancarty, better known as Lord Dunlo, is advertised in the Gazette as a debtor who will not pay his bills. The advertiser is Sam Lewis, the famous bill broker, who is always ready to advance money on the written promise to pay of young aristocrats with titles and estates in prospective.

Lewis put confidence in Dunlo when his lordship was badly in need of somebody's financial aid. When Lord Dunlo married the variety singer, Belle Bilton, his father, the old earl of Clancarty, tried to break up the marriage, and, failing in that, shut his son out of all the property possible.

He could not deprive the young man of the succession of the title, or of certain entailed rights in the property; but he withheld from Dunlo everything that was within his absolute control. When the earl died Dunlo found himself at the head of the famous family of Poer-Trench, with a bare entail, and little or no ready money to sustain his new dignity.

His wife helped to support him. In the meantime Lewis began to look for his money. A process server spent days and weeks trying to serve papers on the earl in a suit brought by Lewis to recover, and the earl was kept busy dodging service.

On one occasion it is said that the countess concealed her lord and master beneath her ample skirt, and the bewildered and breathless process server had to retire disappointed. Lewis now advertises in the Gazette, and announces that on June 4 he will apply to have the earl declared a bankrupt unless he settles in the meantime.

DEATH OF GEN. MUSSEY.

End of the Life of a Brave and Brilliant Man.

Washington, May 30.—Gen. F. D. Mussey died this morning of dropsy.

Gen. Mussey was a native of New Hampshire, where he was born May 30, 1833. He afterwards moved with his parents to Cincinnati, O. While a young man he was for a time engaged in newspaper work, and during the winter of 1859-60 he was the Washington correspondent of the Commercial Gazette.

Gen. Mussey rendered active service during the war and received a medal for special bravery. He was probably the first officer of the regular army who offered his services in connection with colored troops. In 1863 he was detailed to duty in organizing such troops and participated in recruiting 10 regiments. Afterwards he served for a time as private secretary to President Johnson and during this time he was made colonel by brevet in the regular army and brigadier general by brevet volunteers.

In 1867 the general was admitted to the bar here and his practice included cases before the supreme court and before international commission. He was a comprehensive student, a ready writer and forcible speaker. He took an active part in the presidential campaigns since 1860. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by the trustees of Marietta college, Ohio. His remains will be interred here Tuesday.

M. EGAN IS BACK

The Missing Shipping Master in Chicago.

He Tells a Strange Tale to the Reporters,

Who Smile While He Relates It.

Chloroformed, Robbed and Abducted.

The First He Knew After Meeting Two Strange Men Was That He Was in Rochester Sick, Dirty and Ragged.

Chicago, May 30.—(Special Marine Service)—Capt. Weise, of the Norwegian steamer Wergeland, was yesterday the guest of the Norwegian-American citizens of Chicago. He was driven about the city, wined and dined, and finally shown the promising beauties of the world's fair grounds at Jackson park.

At 6 o'clock last evening the party arrived at O'Connor's wharf, Lighthouse slip. Shortly after they arrived on board the ship he was presented with a beautiful American flag. The decks had been crowded all day with people, mostly Norwegians, and at this time there were at least 5,000 upon her decks and on the wharf alongside.

Badly Damaged.

While at anchor on the west shore the schooner Surprise rubbed her stem and forefoot off on her anchor chain and ran ashore. She was released and towed into Racine, where her cargo was discharged, and she arrived in Chicago yesterday leaking badly, and was taken immediately to Miller Bros.' dry dock. The schooner Evaline Bates is also hauled out there.

The Trouble Commenced.

A sailboat containing a man named George Blackman and two brothers, named Connell, capsized yesterday in the basin near the north end. The excursion steamer Viola, Capt. Keeley, put out from her dock at Van Buren street and succeeded in saving all of them. There were numerous other frail little craft, including rowboats, in the basin during the day, and several had narrow escapes from being run down by the steamers.

The police officers also reported that the boats to and from the pier and Lincoln park were sometimes overloaded, and that a great deal of racing was indulged in between the steamers. One race in which there was great interest was between the steamers Rice and Juliette, but it proved a draw. When they arrived at the foot of Randolph street they were abreast.

Capt. Ed Napier's new steamer has been named the Music. She is 106 feet long, with 20 feet beam, and has about the same power as the Fashion, which Capt. Napier sold for $6,500 to Lake Superior parties. The Music is a beautiful craft, and is very fleet.

Coal to Newcastle.

The steamer Rochester's lot of 27,000 bushels of corn, from Buffalo for Norton & Worthington, was discharged at Armour's elevator in the canal.

The Thew.

The attachment of the burned steamer W. P. Thew will not interfere with the work of rebuilding her. If any claim is allowed for the services of the steamer Sailor Boy, it will be paid by the insurance companies, and the owners of the steamer are not in the least interested.

Egan is Back.

The long-missing Capt. Patrick W. Egan appeared Saturday at No. 2417 Cottage Grove avenue, where he had taken a room some time ago, and where his clothing and effects still are, and returned to Mrs. Peterson, the estimable lady who rents the rooms, the key of his room.

He waited at the house some time to see Mr. Biemel, the shipping master who came to Chicago with him, but as Mr. Biemel did not come in Egan left, saying he would call again. On Sunday morning Mr. Biemel suddenly determined to give up his room at the house, obtained a wagon and had his trunk and things removed. He said the only reason why he was moving was that he did not propose to be bothered by either Egan or the reporters.

Mrs. Peterson said she did not blame him much, for the reporters had made a run upon her residence for the last three weeks—reporters and detectives—and that the door-bell had been constantly ringing day and night. Some nights reporters had been there as late as 12 o'clock.

Later Capt. Egan was hunted up by a reporter, and was asked to explain his disappearance. He said: "I would much rather not get into the papers again until the police have sifted this case to the bottom. I see you smile at me, but it is no laughing matter. One of the boldest and most miserable outrages ever perpetrated upon an inoffensive man has been perpetrated upon me, including robbery of no small amount to a poor man who has to work for his living.

"I came here to be associated with Biemel in the Chicago shipping office of the Lake Carriers' association. Before the office was opened I went out one day to see some friends at Thirty-fourth and Halsted streets. I drank nothing that day, and the people I went to see are not drinking people. They are old acquaintances of mine.

"In the evening they put me aboard one of the cross-town street car lines—Thirty-first, I believe. I was as sober as I am now. I don't drink and don't go on sprees. I want you and everyone to understand that point, and what I am going to say is God's truth. I was afraid the car would carry me out of the way for Cottage Grove avenue and Twenty-fourth street, where my rooms were, and I got off the car on Thirty-first street to walk.

"While walking along Thirty-first street two men came along, and, asking for some street, engaged me in conversation. An instant afterward something like a wet towel was pulled suddenly and tightly across my face and throat from behind. I struggled fiercely and grasped one of the men by the throat. This is all I can remember.

"I see you are smiling at me, and I expect just such treatment from every one to whom I tell this story, but I am a God-fearing man and have always tried to live a straight-forward life, and as I pray to heaven this is the truth.

"The next I knew I found myself dirty and sick, setting on a stoop in some place which seemed familiar to me. I inquired form passers-by and they told me I was in Rochester, N. Y., the home of my boyhood, where I was born and raised. How I got there I don't know. I don't remember of being on any cars. I must have been drugged and have been unconscious all the time on the passage from Chicago to Rochester, for all is a blank from the time of the assault upon me on Thirty-first street in Chicago until I found myself on the streets of Rochester.

"I had $300 in my pocket which I intended to invest, but I had not invested it. This was stolen from me by the parties who committed this outrage. Who they are I have no means of knowing. I had put $60 in my sock, and this I finally thought of after I had been conscious 48 hours. I got a boarding place, bought a new suit of clothes and remained in Rochester several days.

The captain was asked if his condition, or the condition of his clothes would indicate how he had been conveyed to Rochester.

He said he could not imagine by what means of conveyance he got to Rochester. He was as dirty as if he had been in a coal-car, and when he saw himself in a mirror he was not surprised that the people looked at him as they did on the street.

He went on to say that he proposed to have this whole dastardly conspiracy, outrage and robbery investigated by the police, and to bring the guilty parties to justice.

He would do this if it took his salary for the rest of his life.

The first thing he did after cleansing himself up in Rochester was to write to his son in Cleveland, and to Mr. George Finney in Chicago. He remained in Rochester a few days, and then took passage to Chicago, arriving here on Saturday.

As to whether he was still in the employ of the Lake Carriers' association, Capt. Egan said he supposed he was.

He had not a personal enemy in the world he knew of. He had gone through a fearful ordeal, and he did not believe it was on his own account. Certainly his employers would not abandon him because he had suffered in their service.

It is understood that not only will the city police be put upon the case, but one of the leading detective agencies will be employed. Efforts were made yesterday and last evening to see Shipping Master Biemel, but as he had changed his rooming place, and asked the expressman not to develop the new location, he could not be found. He will of course be in his office as usual to-day.

Egan's moustache is shaved off, but his whiskers are intact.

AN OLD PATENT CASE

Likely to Cause Shoemakers Considerable Trouble.

Lynn, Mass., May 30.—About 25 Lynn shoe manufacturers held a meeting yesterday to consult regarding a case which involves millions of dollars and concerns every shoe manufacturer in the country. In 1881 the estates of Joseph Davis and Jerome Ingalls, of Lynn, and D. Lefaher & Son, of Beverly, were attached in action of tort to recover damages for the alleged infringement of a combination steel shoe shank patent granted in December, 1864, to Calvin Rice, of Beverly. General Butler was the claimant's counsel.

The suit was not prosecuted. It is now brought up because the creditors of Joseph Davis, finding that his insolvent estate cannot be settled until the attachment is dissolved, have decided to press the suit to trial. The patentee is now dead. His widow and a weak-minded son are his heirs, and Gen. Butler will appear in their behalf. The case will probably come up in the United States Circuit court in Boston next Wednesday.

LONDON SOCIETY SHOCKED

By Sweating Establishments in the West End.

They are as Bad as Those at Whitechapel, Yet are Patronized by the Best People.

London, May 30.—The Evening News and Post, an enterprising Tory half-penny paper, which has from the first led the movement for restricting immigration of destitute aliens to this country, has discovered that the evil of the "sweating system" in the tailoring trade is by no means confined to the East End of London. The foreigners, chiefly Hebrews, as in Witechapel, have established a prosperous sweating business in the West End, and their foul workrooms, where men and women work long hours for starvation wages, are largely patronized by the best and most fashionable firms in Regent street and neighborhood.

A reporter found two men and seven women at work upon high-class good in a room 12 feet long, 8 feet broad and 7 or 8 feet high, situated over stables. The employer, of course, was a foreigner, and he contracted for work at sixpence or sevenpence per hour, for which he paid his people twopence or threepence per hour. In other words, he was a sweater of the orthodox East End type, and the knowledge of his presence in the West End is calculated to cause a severe shock to the gilded youth of Mayfair and their American imitators, who contentedly pay or promise to pay exorbitant prices for their garments under the impression that they are made by the best English tailors.

Opinions differ as to a means of stemming the pauper influx. Secretary Flinn, of the London Tailors' union, thinks that foreigners should not be allowed to work for less than union rates, but he has no clear idea as to how such prohibition could be enforced. A majority of respectable tailors, British and foreign, strongly advocate an imposition of a poll tax of some kind upon foreign workmen landing on these shores, coupled with a general regulation of immigration on American lines.

A curious effect, by the way, of the drastic rules enforced in New York, is felt in London. Knowledge of American severity has evidently spread throughout Europe, with the result that destitute aliens who in the old days would have gone direct to the United States, now come first to England, with the intention of earning enough money to qualify them to pass through Uncle Sam's jealously guarded portals.

HIGH LIFE SCANDAL

Just Brought to Light in New York.

A Millionaire's Son and Heir Runs Away With Another Wealthy Man's Wife.

New York, May, 30.—R. Y. Hebden, the husband of the woman who eloped from Montreal with John S. Allan, the oldest son and heir of Andrew A. Allan, one of the millionaire partners of the Allan Royal steamship line, some ten days ago, arrived in New York Saturday. He was accompanied by two of his children and two nurses and is now occupying rooms in the Windsor hotel.

The news of the elopment leaked out yesterday notwithstanding the influence the Allan family brought to bear on Canadian papers to suppress it.

The deserted husband has been connected with the bank of Montreal as second agent many years and holds a position worth $15,000 a year. He feels his disgrace keenly and has refused to see any but his most intimate friends since his return from Montreal. Mr. Hebden is the son of the late Rev. James Hebden, who was, up to the time of his death, pastor of the church of the Ascension in Hamilton, Ont. He was educated in England and served several years in the army. His position as New York agent of the Bank of Montreal is deemed the most responsible one of the institution.

FIVE STRAIGHT GAMES.

Toledo is Now Playing Winning Ball.

Ft. Wayne Knocked Out in Nice Shape.

A Game of Ball Played on Sunday Regardless of the Protests—General Sporting.

Toledo has broken the record. Five straight games won is playing ball. In succession they won one from Columbus, three from the Indians and one from Ft. Wayne.

In the first game Saturday Mr. Gayle started in to pitch for the Indians, but the Toledo boys turned his breezy name into a cyclone. In the sixth inning, six singles and a double, aided by two bases on balls and an error, netted seven runs.

Indianapolis could do nothing with Clarke. After Toledo got a big lead Clarke eased up and they scored three. The score:

The second game was more of a pitchers' battle, neither of them being hit very hard, and it remained for Uncle Tom to push out a two-base hit and drive the two winning runs across the plate.

In the fourth inning Dewald's hand was split open with a batted ball and Darling took his place at bat. When it came time to go into the box Clark took Dewald's place and pitched the game out. It was interesting to the close.

In the ninth inning with only one run to tie and the heavy hitting batters to lead, Clarke mowed two of them down on strikes and the other one went out on a fly. The score is as follows:

The Toledo club was in somewhat of a predicament Sunday. Clarke had pitched fourteen innings Saturday, Dewald was laid up with a split hand and Pears was suffering from a very lame shoulder, but the emergency was overcome. Gettinger, that athletic young man who swims around in left field lakes agreed to pitch the game. And he pitched it. And he pitched it out of sight, too. There were no flies around him in the out field. The hard hitting Ft. Wayne team bundled up their bats with only five hits to their credit.

The Toledo boys gave Gettinger wonderful support, making three double plays.

Toledo scored one in the first on Ely's two-bagger, a wild pitch and Nichol's hit. They should have had two in this inning but Snyder called Campion out after he had scored. Toledo scored two in the third on Nicholson's base on balls, a stolen base, Campion's two-bagger and Smith's muff of Gettinger's high fly.

That a game was played Sunday will be much of a surprise. It was expected that if any attempt was made to play ball both teams would be arrested.

The banner was pulled in and the word passed around that there would be no game. At noon, however, Mr. Gunnells ordered the banner out and told the boys to play the game. Regardless of the misunderstanding there were 4,000 people present. Had the day not been threatened and had the people not feared police interference, the number would have been twice as large. Everybody was in suspense all through the game, but Parson Nicholson relieved the anxiety by stating to the spectators that the game would stop at the end of the eighth inning "by agreement."

After the game it was learned from the ball players that they had been arrested.

Another run came in the fourth on Newell's hit, sacrifices by Armour and Hurley and a passed ball.

In the fifth Campion's double, Gettinger's single and Dugdale's wild throw let in two runs. One more came in in the sixth on Hurley's single, Darling's sacrifice and Ely's hit.

The only runs scored by Ft. Wayne were in the sixth. Hogriever got a base on balls and stole second, Donaghue was hit by a pitched ball, Sutcliffe made a hit and scored Hogy. Motz went out at first; no sacrifice; Alvord went out on a long fly to Nichol and Donaghue scored. An error allowed Sutcliffe to score. Smith got a base on balls and Ely threw Dugdale out at first from left field.

The seventh inning for Ft. Wayne was exciting. With three men on bases and nobody out Nichol threw Wadsworth out at the plate, old "Si" struck out, Motz went out on a fly. The score follows:

The Troys was to play the Bully Boys a game of ball Sunday, May 29th on the St. Clair street grounds at 2:30 p. m., but they did not show up.

Fred Ely is a ball player.

Hurley had the top of a finger knocked off yesterday.

"Dad" Clark is quite a man in a long inning contest.

The boys open their present trip abroad in Fort Wayne.

Gettinger is quite a pitcher and wouldn't speak to the boys Saturday night.

Campion put the ball over the fence in the fifth inning of the first game Saturday.

Dewald and Pears are both laid up. Bres Campion had better try a whirl in the box again. If he's as good there as he is on first he would be a hummer.

There's a letter at the Base Hit for Gettinger, post marked Chicago, and it looks as though it came from Anson. Uncle must have heard of that game Saturday.

In the second inning of the first game Saturday Tom Nicholson made one of his old-time catches. He went up in the air several feet and pulled down a ball with one hand.

Toledo played the best fielding game Sunday that has been put up here in many months. Three double plays is doing the act according to Commisky and Mike Kelley.

Police officers took the names of a large number of respectable citizens who attended the ball game Sunday. What it was done for is a mystery. It is not a crime to attend a ball game, but a crime to participate in one. No matter what the class of attendance, whether preachers or pugilists, the plain fact remains that Sunday ball playing is a violation of the law.

IN HARD LUCK

Are the Negro Colonists in Oklahoma.

They Have No Money, Are Too Strong to Work and In Consequence Are Near Starvation.

Oklahoma City, Ok., May 30.—The first section of the long expected colony of negroes from Memphis, Tenn., and Crittenden county, Arkansas, have arrived here. They came in wagons and on foot, and are entirely destitute. They number about 100, and say that the main colony of 500 or 600 more will be here in about a week. They report desperate experiences with famine and high water, and their ranks have been considerably thinned thereby.

One old black man had traveled the last 200 miles rolling a wheelbarrow containing his bedding, clothing and household goods. He started with a shackly wagon and a pair of ponies, but lost them, with the greater part of his personal effects, in a swollen stream in the eastern part of the territory.

They are all without money or means of support, and are going through the city begging from house to house for enough to keep them from starving until they can get transportation back to the old plantations. If the influx continues steps will be taken to get congress to appropriate money to relieve them, as the people here ar entirely unwilling as well as unable to support them, and they do not desire to work.

Citizens here are very indignant that such a class of people should be forced upon them, and the negroes are furious that they have been deceived and robbed by one claiming to be an emigrant agent, and giving the name of Tom Henderson. He has been arrested at Kingfisher and will probably be taken back to Tennessee to be tried for swindling. He had told them that for $2.500 he would land them in Arkansas, where the government would furnish them homes and supply their wants. They came overland, while the self-styled agent came by rail.

IOWA'S PROHIBITION SAW

Drops Down on Some Defiant Wholesale Liquor Dealers.

Davenport, Io., May 30.—Saturday for the first time in three years an application was filed in this city for an injunction against a liquor dealer under the Iowa prohibitory law. A short time ago the city council passed an ordinance taxing dealers in unprohibited beverages $200 a year. This was intended to cover the saloons and get $4,000 a year out of them. All the saloons and breweries paid, but the wholesale liquor dealers did not. Mayor John C. Bills announced that they must pay and a justice trial was had. One dealer was discharged because he had ceased selling unprohibited beverages. One was fined $100 and costs this morning for selling mineral water.

Mayor Bills at once notified the discharged wholesaler that he must pay the tax or the Iowa prohibitory law would be on him and his store be closed. All wholesalers retail liquors and thus compete directly with the saloons, which pay the tax. The dealers defied him to proceed. An application for permanent injunction was filed against Haase Bros., but in a few hours the money to pay the license was in hand. Other dealers will pay up.

with handles, though sometimes they were set upright on stands. Later on, silver was used, and the first mirror of solid silver is said to have been made by Praxiteles, about the time of Julius Caesar.

THE LAST COURSE

In the Commercial Travelers Meeting

Was Served at the Big Banquet—Grips Packed and the Angels Flown.

The banquet at Pythian castle Saturday evening was a fitting finishing touch to the United Commercial Travelers' sojourn in Toledo. The spacious ball room at the castle has been the scene of many a festal gathering, but it would be hard to imagine a more brilliant gathering than that of Saturday evening. Flowers and decorations were in profusion, the tables gleamed with fine napery and silver, music delighted the ear and a menu of rare excellence tickled the palate. Nothing more could have been desired and the members of Toledo Council who tendered the banquet to the visitors can well feel proud of their success as entertainers.

After prayer by Rev. S. D. Hutsinpiller Toastmaster E. B. Ensworth spoke in substance as follows: Our third annual meeting is drawing to a close and rapidly becoming a memory. I strust the efforts of Toledo Council has caused the ranks to close up and the boys to stand all the more together. If we have left anything undone it has been more the fault of the head than the heart. It affords me great pleasure to introduce one who was present at the birth of the order, John C. Fennimore, of Columbus.

The gentleman introduced was the founder of the order, and his toast was to the organization of which he is the father. His remarks were masterly. He spoke of the numerous organizations of a similar nature that has existedthat essDsH time and passed into out a memory as the result of weakness in the makeups. He thought that the U. C. T. would stand the test of time. It has no hidden motive, no strikes, no lockouts. We recognize the fact that the interests of the manufacturer and the traveling man are mutual. Our calling requires men of equal intelligence to the professions of medicine, ministry, and law. The old drummer is rapidly becoming eliminated, and our profession is being elevated to a higher moral standard.

The object of our order is to bring men up to the standard required, to give relief to those dependent on us, always—affluence, never. We stand as a rock in whose cooling shade the mother can cool her fevered brow. We bring God, wife and family into our organization and with such a platform nothing but success can be ours.

The newly-elected grand counselor, J. C. Whittaker, of Dayton, responded to the toast, "Unity." He spoke of the subject of the toast as one of the corner stones of the order, and made a strong appeal to the members to work shoulder to shoulder for the best interests of their organization.

William Brent, of Portsmouth, toasted another of the principles of the order, Charity. "Let your charity," he said, "be weighed in the scales of justice and fall on the side of mercy."

Temperance was the sentiment of the toast of C. J. Mann, of Lima. He said that the commercial traveler in his journeys could not but help to witness the sorrow and suffering resulting from intemperance. His observations should teach him a great lesson—it has taught him a great lesson. The traveling man of to-day has self-will, pride and backbone. If one of our members should fall by the way we will lead him back to the straight path. I hope to see the 300,000 commercial travelers in this country all members of our order and all good temperance men.

"Our customers," said W. A. Johnson, of Cincinnati, in his toast to that important adjunct to a commercial traveler's success, "are our stock in trade. They draw for us a princely salary from a constantly kicking employer. The traveling man thinks he owns his customers, and if perchance one should transfer his orders to a competing house, the traveling man tearfully informs his firm that the customer in question was stolen away at less than cost. Next to his wife, the customer is the traveling man's best friend; he sticks to us like a brother, when we cut prices, and makes it possible for hotel clerks, instead of gathering shells by the seaside and crying 'what are the wild waves saying?' to scintillate behind the counter and give us front rooms at half price, while the sockless son of the soil pays full fare. Let me call your attention to a few samples of customers you meet every day.

There is the man who is always glad to see you, overjoyed, in fact; takes you by both hands, asks about your wife, your family, even your mother-in-law, but is sorry he can't buy anything to-day.

There is the man who looks and acts as if he is sorry he's living; never wants anything; don't want to see goods, has no use for drummers, don't see why they were ever created. Who can sell him? Well, somebody does, and you bet he pays dearly for his crabbedness.

There is the man who wonders how you can sell goods so cheap, marvels at your fine line and tells you that the next time you call he will place an order with your house. He never does. The next time it is the same thing over again—you are selling goods, the best and cheapest on earth; he knows it, but is full now, however, the next time, etc., etc.

There is the crabbed customer who winds up by buying something, the man who wants sonthing for nothing with a parlor suit, a corner lot and eight-day stove thrown in, and then there is the good-natured customer who knows the value of good goods and don't bicker for one-eighth off when there is no one-eighth on. This man always gets the bargains. Any how, the customer is our main hold, so here's to him, our customer, God bless him.

"The Hotels on Our Route" was the toast assigned to John P. Weed, of Toledo, but on account of his absence H. C. Schloss read his paper. It was a very laughable toast. The various landlords to whom traveling men warmed were mentioned tenderly, while the man who served prunes when strawberries were ripe was passed over lightly. The tale was told of a man who dropped a nickel in a dish of cranberries gracing a hotel table and on going back six months later fished out the coin undisturbed. Numerous other points were touched that amused the traveling men highly.

Geo. W. Gusten, of Chillicothe, responded to the toast, "The Infant Council," and James F. S. Crane, of Dayton, to the "Commercial Traveler." William Beatty, of the Bee, responded to "The Press," and took occasion to thank Toledo Council, in behalf of Toledo, for bringing such a fine body of men to the city and

A LIVELY CORPSE.

The Catholic Standard Not Dead, Nor Even Sleeping.

In the Bee's report concerning the arrest of H. W. Tiernan, at Columbus, appeared the statement that the accused was "at one time editor of the Catholic Standard, now defunct." This was an error. The Bee learns that this was an error, and unintentional, of course, since the Standard is still published at the Cleveland office, and as Editor Greeves puts it, "was never as healthy as at the present time." This correction is cheerfully made.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE.

The Ames-Bonner Brush Factory Again In Flames.

Yesterday morning fire broke out in the Ames-Bonner brush factory, corner Lafayette and Ottawa streets. The department responded and put eight streams into the flames, extinguishing the fire inside of twenty minutes. It is not known how it originated. No one was in the building for several hours before the fire was noticed. The building and contents were insured for $100,000. The loss is estimated to be, on stock $25,000 and on the building about $1,500.

THE MAY FESTIVAL.

A Toledoan Who Enjoyed the Week in Cincinnati.

A Toledo musician says: As we enter the grand auditorium of Music hall, the massive organ looms before us, and the man in front of it looks so small we almost wonder what he will be able to do with the ponderous instrument. Seven hundred voices in the chorus and ninety pieces in the orchestra—what a great wave of harmony and melody they roll out. Thomas was given a flattering welcome as he appeared; Lloyd and the other distinguished soloists: Mesdames Marie Ritter-Goetze and Antonia Mielke, and the German tenor, Andreas Dippel, Mrs. Moore-Lawson, Miss Ida M. Smith, Messrs. Ludwig and Holmes, were cheered to the echo on each appearance. Mdlle. Clementina DeVere, a favorite in Cincinnati and in Toledo as well, appeared Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening. 'Twas a great week in the Queen City and the Tenth May Festival must go on record as one of unqualified success.

TWO LITTLE ENGLISH GIRLS

Taken to the Children's Home.

Humane Agent France took two little English girls named Ridley to the Children's home this morning. Their mother was burned to death about two years ago, leaving these little girls, the eldest of whom is now 10 and the other two years younger, to the care of their father, who, not being able to provide a home for them, sent them to this country to his brother who lives in Toledo. The little ones made the trip across the ocean alone and agrived here in August, since which time they have lived with their uncle, but as he is not able to support them, it was thought best to send them to the home, where their father will pay their board. The children are very bright, and their dread of being taken away from their friends and the pitiful way they speak of their mother, wondering if she can see them away in a strange country, makes their case a peculiarly sad one.

The Humane society is greatly in need of clothing, and will be glad to receive clothes of any kind.

THE URSULINE CONVENT

AFTER MURPHY'S SCALP.

Commissioner Lewis is After the Free Employment Office.

Superintendent Chas. W. Murphy, of the free employment office, yesterday morning received notice that he was required to appear at the state house, Columbus, at 1 p. m. to-morrow, to answer charges of inefficiency and direliction of duty.

Mr. Murphy replied curtly and promptly that when the charges were specifically presented in writing he would take pleasure in answering and refuting them.

Speaking with a Bee this morning, Superintendent Murphy said:

"I am republican enough to indorse the doctrine, so stoutly condemned by republicans while out of power and so thoroughly practiced while in office, that to the victors belong the spoils, but in my case it happens that while the office was created and is controlled by the state, that is, by the republican party, it is maintained and supported by the city—in other words, by a democratic city council. To whom, therefore, does the office belong? I am going to wait and find out."

Should Commissioner Lewis push the matter to extremes, the democrats of the council are in favor of reducing the salary to $25 a month. When this is done there will not be so many republican ward workers hunting for the office.

LITTLE HATTIE CAHOO

Meets With a Painful Accident, But is Recovering.

Hattie Cahoo, the 3-year-old daughter of Fireman Cahoo, while watching the parade Saturday at No. 3 engine house, fell through the trap where the men slide to the floor below. The little girl struck on her head and received painful injuries. She is much better to-day, and will recover.

IMPORTANT SUIT

To Be Tried To-morrow in Common Pleas Court.

To-morrow the Union Manufacturing case will be argued before Judge Pugsley in common pleas court.

This is one of the most important cases on the docket, over $200,000 being involved.

The stockholders' liability has been established, and now the proportionate liability of the various stockholders will be decided upon.

MR. WM. H. SPORE

Presented With a Handsome Gold Badge.

There was another surprise at the police station Saturday evening, and this time Chief of Detectives Wm. H. Spore was the victim. He was summoned into the court room where, in a neat speech Judge Sala presented him with a handsome gold badge, the gift of his friends and admirers. The badge is inscribed: "W. H. Spore, Chief of Detectives, Toledo Police Department, 1892." No person can wear it with better grace than Mr. Spore.

THE A. O. U. W.

Notes of Interest to Toledo's Big Membership.

Representatives and others who visit Helena, Montana, on the occasion of the Supreme Lodge meeting will leave Chicago on a special train June 10.

The Grand Lodge has received from the Supreme Lodge since January 7, for beneficiary purpose, the sum of $80,500.

Only one death occurred in the membership from April 21 to May 27, so far as reported.

The lodges elect their officers at the last meeting in June.

The Grand Lodge will meet in Canton, on the fourth Tuesday of August.

POLITICAL EQUALITY.

The Club Holds an Interesting Meeting Saturday.

On Saturday afternoon the Political Equality club met with Miss Louise Ober-Miller, 625 Finlay place. In the absence of the president, Miss Katherine Calkins was elected temporary chairman. The chapter from Civil Governments was read on the Municipal Officers of a City. An interesting discussion followed, the parliamentary drill being dispensed with in order to hear reports on the work done at the Salem convention. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. E. Quigley, 423 Tenth street, June 11. Reports will also be heard at this meeting and no parliamentary drill will be conducted.

ARRESTED AGAIN.

Base Ball Players Go to the Station, Put Up Bail and Are Released.

At the conclusion of yesterday's game of ball, the players were taken to the police station, where charges of playing ball on Sunday were placed opposite their names. They were released on bail in the sum of $600. The bail on the arrest last Sunday was about the same amount, so Sunday ball will have cost the management some $1,200 if the clubs do not appear in court for trial to-morrow, the day set for the hearing of the case.

A basket full of cards was brought to the police station yesterday and deposited on Chief Raitz's desk. They were numerously signed by citizens, and were inscribed as follows:

To Benj. F. Raitz, Chief of Police, Toledo, O.:

I, as one of Toledo's voters, hereby respectfully but earnestly urge the enforcement of the law against to-day's Sunday game of base ball, demanding the entire suppression of the game on Sunday.

NOTES FROM THE RIVER.

The Summer Excursion Season Comes In With a Rush.

Saturday was in reality the opening of the river excursion season and the boats all did a rushing business.

The steamer Burt made her first trip of the season to Perrysburg and took up a select crowd, who were more than pleased with the delightful trip and the handsome boat.

The Pastime took out an immense crowd yesterday, and the popular boat looks handsome since she has been overhauled.

Saturday evening the Ohio Yacht club gave a delightful supper at Presque Isle. The steamer Wilson and many of the yachts were used in transferring members to and from the island.

The City of Toledo has started the season under most favorable circumstances. Under her new management she will do a great business.

The Idlewild took a large list of passengers to Detroit yesterday. Many of the Commercial Travelers took in the trip.

It is probable that the new summer resort at Perrysburg will be open about July 1, under the auspices of the Toledo Press club.

The steamer Douglas will enter on the Detroit-Monroe route in about a week. She is being handsomely fitted up.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Henry Jewett has been on the sick list.

Mrs. Frank Hoag will go to Boston this week.

C. J. Wooley is spending a few days at Star Island.

Mrs. Richard Hattersley is taking an extended western trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Scammell have returned from Tecumseh.

Miss Parmer, of Detroit, was the guest of her brother, Mr. Parmer.

Miss Sophia Edholm will return to Detroit this week, after a pleasant visit here.

I. N. Huntsberger went to Monclova this morning to deliver the Decoration address.

Mrs. Henry Whitaker has gone to Cleveland on account of Mr. Will Whitaker's serious illness.

Dr. Mowry has gone to Mansfield, where he will attend the Memorial day exercises with his old comrades.

Mr. Stephen Brophy left for a month's sojourn through the east. He will attend the commencement of Yale college during his absence.

Mrs. Esther Blodgett and Master Murray Pease have returned from Denver and Salt Lake City, where they have had a pleasant visit.

Miss Rhea Lypple and Miss Etta Johnson, of Pittsburg, Miss Ernest and Mr. N. L. Johnson, of Tiffin, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Wight at Hotel Madison.

Judge Sala will entertain the newspaper men to-morrow evening at his residence, corner Lawrence avenue and Bancroft street. It will doubtless be a most enjoyable affair.

Mayor Emmick, Mrs. Emmick, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Potter wil lleave Thursday for Minneapolis. They will be absent about ten days and will put in a portion of the time in Chicago.

MEMORIAL DAY.

How it is Being Observed in Toledo.

Address by Governor McKinley at Memorial Hall—The Cemeteries Visited.

A more beautiful day for memorial ceremonies could not have been made to order. Old Sol arose smiling this morning, beaming his hearty co-operation with the veterans in their glorious work.

At an early hour the good ladies of the Woman's Relief corps began to arrange the masses of beautiful flowers and foliage which had been so generously provided by the people.

Deft and willing hands soon shaped hundreds of wreaths of evergreen and flowers, to be placed on the graves of our heroes dead.

At the appointed hour the various posts marched from headquarters to the hall, where they received the floral offerings.

From there the posts detailed as follows, visited the cemeteries and decorated the graves: Toledo post, Forest cemetery; Forsyth, Woodlawn; Ford post, East Toledo; Volunteer, all outlying cemeteries.

The march of the veterans through the streets to the various cemeteries was indeed a beautiful and impressive sight. The full membership of all posts turned out almost to a man, and all wore the regulation hat and coat. They marched four deep, each man holding a wreath of flowers at rest on his left arm, and a bouquet of flowers in the same hand. The time and step were perfect, and the body moved as a single man, which created extreme admiration of all who were so fortunate as to witness the parade.

This afternoon the general parade occurs, the march concluding at Memorial hall, where Gov. McKinley will deliver the address of the day.

The hall has been beautifully decorated and the stage is one vast profusion of beautiful cut flowers and potted plants. The decoration of the hall was under the supervision of Mrs. D. R. Locke.

Gov. McKinley's table was decorated with lilies presented by Grace church for this purpose.

Among those who contributed flowers are: Theodore Ballard, J. J. Hunker, Anna Crane, E. R. McDowel in memory of John Wolfert, Theodore Tilden Steadman, Mrs. B. F. Mallet, Earl Curry, Mrs. Wolfert, Mrs. J. Potter, Mr. J. H. Brown, Lucia Skinner, Mr. Hudson, A. C. Nitcher, Ralph Henry, Tillie Shramm, Eddie Yaryan, Mr. Pheill, florist; Mr. and Mrs. Glazer, Mrs. Chatfield, Howard and Cecil May, Ralph Hiett, Central Congregational church, Mark E. Sibley camp, S. of V., Mrs. J. G. Norton, Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. James Davis and others.

At Woodlawn.

The beautiful and appropriate exercises was held at Woodlawn cemetery this morning. The program consisted of the reading of memorial day exercises by W. I. Squire, followed by prayer by Gen. Slevin. Gov. McKinley was then introduced and made a short address, which was heartily applauded. The woman's relief corps conducted memorial services for The Unknown Dead, and beautiful flowers were placed on the monument, as was also the floral piece for the 27 boys who enlisted from the High school.

There were also impressive services by Mark E. Sibley camp, S. of V., and the Ladies' Aid society, the president placing a white wreath on the monument.

"For the little children made fatherless we lay this offering and promise to help them to education and useful lives."

A committee from the Toledo High school was also present and participated.

At this cemetery the graves have been artistically and fittingly decorated and presented a beautiful appearance.

The Cadets Decorate.

A committee of the Toledo Cadets visited the graves of their dead comrades yesterday, and paid floral tribute to their memory. There were 12 graves decorated: Gen. Hill, Hamilton Colton, Frank Ketcham, Charles Peckham, Gen. Steadman, H. T. Cook, "Sarg." Johnson, Lieut. Datesman, Geo. Bishop, Charles Chapin and M. Bramwell.

On the East Side.

This morning in accordance with the preparations made by Ford Post, G. A. R., Decoration Day was appropriately observed on the East Side. The exercises this morning were at North Oregon cemetery and were opened with singing by the Third Street Methodist choir. Prayer followed by Past Chaplain William Miles. James H. Emery made an able address. Comrades Sage and McCready read the death roll, after which the graves were decorated.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock the following bodies proceeded to Willow cemetery in the order given:

Ford Post Drum Corps.
Ford Post Cadets—Commanded by Comrade C. C. McCready.
Sons of Veterans.
Ford Post.
Disabled Veterans in Carriages.
Ladies' Auxiliary Society.
Speakers and Clergy.
Citizens.

At the cemetery the program was as follows: Singing, Bethany choir; prayer, Rev. S. Bartlett; singing; address by Mr. Wm. H. Tucker; reading of poems, by J. C. Messer; reading of death roll, by Comrades Maginnis and Scheets.

The graves were then decorated by Ford Post Cadets and members of the Post.

AT THE CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

Impressive Services for the Unknown Dead.

This morning at St. Francis de Sales and other Catholic churches of the city masses were celebrated for the repose of the unknown dead soldiers.

This is somewhat of a new departure, and the crowds in attendance this morning shows that the memorial feature in the Catholic church is indorsed and appreciated by the congregations.

Memorial Day Notes.

Mrs. Frank Harlow, of Chicago, sent beautiful flowers.

There are 179 soldiers buried at Woodlawn cemetery.

Six hundred wreaths and 600 baskets of flowers have been contributed.

The Crescent Livery company, which is always ready to do the right thing, furnished a carriage for the press.

Mr. Phrill, florist, donated 100 potted plants which were taken to Woodlawn cemetery and planted in 12 minutes.

The street cars had more than they could carry, and some of the ladies' aid society had to walk to the cemetery.

The flowers are magnificent and there are large quantities of them. The florists have been liberal and the designs are both artistic and appropriate.

Among the 27 boys who enlisted during the war from the High school are: Mr. W. H. H. Smith, George Forsyth, J. J. Johnson, Wm. Corlett, Theodore Sawyer, R. B. Chamberlain, Washington Walbridge and Hamilton C. Colton.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

French clocks repaired at Judd's.

Red Star Cider Vinegar is guaranteed.

A dog that had bitten a child was shot at the police station this morning.

The Irish seem to take kindly to Australia. They also take plenty of Sweet Grape Plug.

Buy diamonds and jewelry at Judd's.

Some one broke into the shoe shop at the corner of Logan and Broadway last night and stole three pairs of shoes.

Almost everybody in Paris goes to the play, and plenty of people in America chew "Indian Brand" fine cut.

Eyes scientifically tested at Judd's.

John Niekranz, an old gentleman 73 years of age, was found dead in bed this morning at his home, 311 Franklin avenue. Coroner Beckwith is investigating.

The protracted meetings at West Toledo M. E. church closed last night. During the meetings 28 united with the church. Rev. J. W. Donnan, the evangelist in charge, is much pleased with the work, as is the pastor, Rev. N. S. Brackney.

DO YOU WANT GOLD?

Cripple Creek is not a health resort. It is a wealth resort. Quite a difference! Location, near Pike's Peak, in Colorado. Gold—bright, yellow gold, is found as grass roots and in the rock formation.

Reliable experts claim this is to-day the richest camp in Colorado. Assays average $100 per ton, and have run as high as $5,000. One hundred people a day are now rushing to Fremont, chief town of the district.

The chance of a life-time is worth looking after!

You can get there quickly and comfortably by taking Santa Fe Route. Only line with no change of cars from Chicago, Kansas City and other principal cities to Florissant, nearest railroad station, with daily stages to Fremont.

Life in the Tenement House.

William T. Esling, a city missionary of New York, who has worked in the slums of the metropolis continuously for nine years, publishes some chapters of his conclusions and experiences in the June number of Scribner's monthly. He gives the usual sad pictures of tenement life in cellars in midwinter and in dark and dismal attics in midsummer, where the heat is too stifling for endurance; of old women making shirts and overalls for twenty-nine cents a dozen; of families of six, trying to live on their combined earnings—$5 a week; of drunken parents and dead children in the same dark bedroom. And from this lowest depth of poverty and misery on up through the gradations, to the cleanly, virtuous, industrious, but half-paid and half fed, and the class still a little higher, some of which are able now and then to put something into the savings banks for the rainy day that is sure to come.

The causes for this world of distress and poverty in the midst of an opulent and prosperous city, in a free country, Missionary Esling does not attempt to conjecture. He says: "In some parts of New York city the population is nearly twice as dense as in the most crowded part of London; nowhere on the wide earth are human beings so crowded as in these tenement districts." The most imperative need is for sunlight and fresh air. The sun never looks into the bedrooms of three-quarters of the people of New York city. Thousands of little children do not see a blade of green grass during an entire summer. And yet, such a little way from their prison houses and alleys are rolling green meadows, groves and streams sparkling in the sunshine.

The model tenement houses in some European cities, and their system of public baths are cited as examples of first importance in the work of New York.

The landlord is the terror of the tenement. The poor wretches' idea of heaven is a place where there is no rent to pay.

Of the influence at work to ameliorate the condition of the poor, it is said: "The influence of the church is not so great as it probably will be in the near future. Religious denominations are becoming interested in the churchless masses. Workingmen are not hostile to religion, they are concerned chiefly about food, clothing and shelter for the present. The active interest of the church in their temporal welfare is already producing beneficial results.

"The most powerful influence at work among the tenement-house population is the public school. Every public school is a great moral lighthouse, and stands for obedience, cleanliness, morality, and patriotism, as well as mental training."

Of the various and efficient societies, the Fresh-air mission is mentioned first. "The daily press," says the writer, "exerts as great an influence over the parents as the public school does over the children. The workingmen of the tenement houses constantly read the newspapers and they read almost nothing else."

The need of trained nurses to care for the sick is emphasized. The missionary asks those who dwell in luxurious homes, to give from their plenty, enough to send trained nurses with comfort, care and necessities into the homes of the poor, where the sick must languish uncared for. He concludes:

The Great Teacher of men consigned Dives to hell, not because of erroneous theological opinions, but because he neglected the beggar, who lay at his gate full of sores. Dives is among us to-day. He is clothed in the finest robes and fares sumptuously every day. Lazarus is also here. He lies in the cheerless bedroom of a tenement house, hungry, sick, and full of sores. The two have been brought together for a purpose. The only salvation for our modern Dives lies in Lazarus.

Toledo's city missionaries have said these things to us. Every city has its palaces and its hovels. Much is done, but the much that remains undone is appalling. The unsolved problem still is: "What is the cause of it all, ad what is the remedy? And in determining the remedy, the search for causes should not be for a moment forgotten.

Anything to Beat Harrison.

Why Benjamin Harrison, descended from good Federalist and Whig stock, is not popular with republicans is difficult to tell, but he is not, and this condition confronts the party which will meet next week to nominate a candidate. Like a flock of sheep the bosses of republican politics are now scampering after the Great Rejected of 1884. That Blaine is more popular than Harrison is also remarkable, for Harrison is comparatively clean, while Blaine is smirched with a congressional record that is as bad to-day as eight years ago. He is a dashing leader, audacious in urging new measures, and defiant of all opposing elements. The party, seemingly determined to dethrone Harrison turns to Blaine as the most magnetic of the disgruntled ones and his star shines brightly over Minneapolis. It is the cry of "anything or anybody to beat Harrison," and it will very likely succeed.

Perhaps Blaine is the stronger of the two; it is well enough for republicans to think so. The democrats welcome this sudden change of front. They know the weak points of the Maine politician and will fight him to defeat in 1892 easier than in 1884. Providing, always, that the democrats make a worthy nomination in Chicago. Everything depends upon that. The democrat who can carry New York will also carry Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut and will be elected. Such a man the democrats must nominate, to defeat either Blaine or Harrison.

The Natural Gas Ordinance.

The action of the council committee substituting for the Coleman ordinance the present ordinance, and extending the time five years, is not worth the paper on which the substitute is drawn, for the very good reason that when two are necessary to a bargain both must agree.

The Northwestern Gas company says twenty cents is as low as it can afford to sell gas ,and it is firm in the assertion. Twelve cents will not satisfy the company, and its officers say so. The council should not hesitate long about fixing the schedule upon a basis that will eliminate the gas question from the discussion of things of material benefit to Toledo. So long as gas costs less, or no more, than coal we can afford to use it and cease quarreling. There is something else to do and to talk about. This big town cannot afford to be in a continual row over any subject. This is sense, and just such a practical view of the question should be taken by the aldermen and councilmen.

Memorial Day.

Brave soldier dead, the world of flowers
That scent the air from sea to sea,
From Northland woods to Southern bowers
Are all in memory of thee.

Beautiful Memorial day: beautiful in sunshine, greenness, blossoms and fragrant air; beautiful in sentiments of patriotism and remembrance; beautiful in expressions of reunion and good-will—friends and brothers all who were, erstwhile, deadly enemies for the sake of honest convictions. To-day, over our sacred dead, we clasp hands of forgiveness and swear they did not die in vain. To-day the "flag of the free hearts' hope and home" floats over a united people. We differ widely and emphatically in policies and methods, but we are loyal Americans, hand in hand, in the midst of memories like these, and the hopes and aspirations that spring from them.

To-day we place the garlands of our grief and our gratitude alike on the towering monument where great deeds are recorded, and on the humble mound marked only by the sad legend "unknown." Some things are known to angels that mortal minds forever miss, and God's daisies are planted above many a brave heart, long gone to dust, and whose very name is unmarked on any list of warriors, lofty or obscure. Here's to the heroes, living and dead, who fought the battles of the Union: our choicest tribute of affectionate remembrance.

A Republican Bear.

The republicans now have hold of the silver question, and like the old fellow with the bear they don't know how to let go. Stewart's bill is on the calendar in the senate and will be up for passage Tuesday. The senate is republican and the republican party must assume full responsibility for its action. The opinion prevails that the bill will pass. This may not please the eastern press or Wall street or the President, but it will be the deliberate act of the republican senate, and its passage, after the refusal of the democratic house to pass a similar measure, will plague the party at the Minneapolis convention. If free silver shall be denounced after the senate passes the bill, the silver states will be very uncertain in November. If the question is dodged the issue will net a republican loss in the east. It is a very troublesome hold of the bear, which the republican brethren have just now, and they are very welcome to all the mischief it can make.

Death of Dr. Jones.

One of the most forceful citizens of Toledo has gone to his rest. No man in Toledo has been better known in Northwestern Ohio for fifty years than Dr. W. W. Jones. No physician has had longer or more honorable practice for half a century than he. Although ailing many months his death this morning seems sudden to this community. He was a man of vigorous expression, and tenacious of opinions; a man of large knowledge and practical expedients; a man born to lead, and generally his leadership was commendable. As Mayor of this city several times he instituted reforms that were beneficial. As a politician he was fair and honest, a democrat from principle, and a man whose integrity and fine sense of honor were his noblest characteristics. He goes to his grave with the benedictions of a community he loved, and which he served faithfully and well.

It is to be regretted that so intelligent a man as Rev. Quigley should deliberately defy the laws of the state in which he lives. He is a stickler for church law and would enforce it to the letter, yet when the civil authority is raised he claims immunity therefrom and sets himself up as higher than the law. Such a spirit will not be tolerated in America. It is foreign to the spirit of our institutions and repugnant to the fine sense of patriotism of the American citizen. Dr. Quigley knows what the school law is. It has been construed to him personally by the common pleas, the circuit and the supreme courts of Ohio. There is no higher authority in law, in this state, and the man who breaks the law is amenable to the law, and, in degree does the offense become greater, as he is more conversant with the law. Whatever opinion Dr. Quigley may have had of the constitutionality of the truant law in the instance of the first violation, that opinion is swept away by the supreme court's decision: That he should offend now, and submit himself to re-indictment by the grand jury is astonishing. It is a position which the church people of his faith in Toledo do not endorse. It is open defiance which admits of no defense.

A grand body of representative Christians—those convened in Omaha for weeks past. They handled disputed questions and opposing factions with political skill, but they did display a bit of moral cowardice in remanding the woman-delegate question back to the annual conferences.

The street rumor that Gov. McKinley apologized to-day to the Blade people for appointing the editor of the Commercial state librarian proves to be a republican lie started for campaign purposes.

Says one: "Blaine is in the hands of his friends and Harrison is in the hands of his enemies." It's sometimes hard to decide which is the most dangerous predicament.

Blaine and Foraker is the republican talk in Ohio this week, and Joseph Benson is not discouraging the talk.

If the postmasters and collectors could settle the question Blaine wouldn't be in it.

MEMENTO OF FLOWERS.

(Suggested by meeting a friend who was carrying her tribute of flowers for Mrs. Welker's funeral.)

With all the glory of the blue deep sky,
With all the warmth and brightness of the sun,
With all the music sweet of wind and bird,
And all the greening joy of this May day—
Bear on, bear on, most lovely, fragrant flowers,
Love-laden and dew-gemmed from out
The heart, to her who softly sleeps to-day!
Who sleeps to all the loveliness of earth,
But yet, who lives and speaks to us, through all
We see, and hear and feel, the beautiful,
The true; too brief, but blessed, noble life
Now stilled and spent. Embalm with fragrant breath,
Oh sacred messengers of sympathy,
The tender wasted form; and softly fold
The lovely in your loveliness; as e'er
She'll be enshrined in fond remembering hearts!

DEATH OF DR. JONES.

Prominent Pioneer Receives His Final Summons.

Brief Sketch of a Citizen Whose Life Has Been Identified With Toledo's Growth.

Dr. William W. Jones passed away at 7 o'clock this morning at his residence on Jefferson street, after a short illness. His death was an unlooked-for blow even to the members of his family, as it was thought he was improving. He had been suffering about a week with pneumonia, but it was not thought he was dangerously ill. Yesterday he felt much better, was up and about, read he papers, and seemed on the rapid road to recovery. However, this morning the change came. He sank rapidly, but was conscious until the moment of his death.

In the death of Dr. Jones Toledo loses one of its best known citizens. He had lived a long and useful life, and the news of his death will be received with general regret.

The following sketch of Dr. Jones' life, taken from Clark Waggoner's history of Lucas county, will be read with interest:

Dr. Jones was born in Smyrna, Chenango county, New York, September 28, 1819. He was a son of Marquis Jones, whose father was Colonel Israel Jones, of Barkhamsted, Connecticut, a soldier of the revolutionary army, and a member of the Connecticut legislature. His paternal ancestors came to this state very soon after the arrival of the Mayflower, having settled there in 1643. The mother of Dr. Jones (Elizabeth Merrill) was born in New Hartford, Connecticut, where her father was a prominent citizen. Her husband died in 1827, aged 47; she surviving him until her 85th year. William W.'s education was limited. He was in a district school until his 10th year, when he went to a private academy for three years, and then to an academy at Salem, New York, where he completed his studies. When about 13 years of age he entered a printing office at Forestville, Chautauqua county, New York, which establishment closing, he went to Buffalo. Here he was employed on a literary publication for a time, when he obtained work on the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, remaining there until his removal to Dresden, Muskingum county, Ohio, in 1836, where a brother was engaged in the manufacture of flour and the sale of merchandise, with whom he took an interest as partner. While pecuniary returns were satisfactory he ere long realized that such business was not adapted to his taste and modes of thought. Acting upon such view, he determined upon professional life, and in 1844 began the study of medicine, his preceptor being Dr. W. W. Rickey, of Dresden, who was prominent in the profession, having been the president of the Ohio State Medical society. For some time Dr. Jones was a student of Dr. Frank H. Hamilton, then professor of surgery in the University of Buffalo, where he was graduated during the winter of 1848-49. The young graduate at once came to Toledo, then a town of 2,000 inhabitants, and entered upon the practice of his life-calling amidst strangers. For 38 years has this now been pursued, with a success which fully meets his early hopes. Fortuitous circumstances materially favored his advent and early practice here, whereby he was advanced to a flattering position in his profession. His attention was directed to both medicine and surgery, in both of which he was successful. The first case of lithotomy successfully performed in this section was by him, which was followed by many like operations. Similar success has attended his treatment of nearly every kind of surgical cases. He has been for many years a member of the Ohio State Medical society, of which he was the president in 1875, and also a member of the American Medical association; an ex-president of the Alumni association of the University of Buffalo; a member of the Detroit Academy of Medicine, and of the Detroit Medical society; an honorary member of the Michigan State Medical society; a member of the Detroit Library association; the oldest living member of the Lucas County Medical society, organized in 1851; a member of the Northwestern Ohio Medical society, of the Southern Michigan Medical society, and of the Northern Indiana Medical society; and corresponding member of several scientific societies. He is consulting surgeon of St. Vincent hospital, Toledo. Since 1840 Dr. Jones has been a member of the Masonic Order, the office of High Priest being the highest official position held by him in the same. From his arrival in Toledo he has taken a deep interest and active part in all affairs in which his fellow-citizens were concerned, contributing, in such ways as occasions might furnish, to their welfare and prosperity. In 1857 he was chosen a member of the city council, of which he was elected president. He has served for three terms or six years as mayor of Toledo, having been elected to that office in 1871, 1873, and 1877. For many years he served as a member of the Toledo board of health. In large measure, the material improvement of the sanitary condition of the city has been due to his influence and suggestions, both as a sanitarian and a public officer, in which connection may be mentioned the superior system of sewerage, the admirable water supply, the plan for collection of vital statistics adopted in 1857, and the compilation of the present Sanitary Code. Like service was rendered by him in connection with the State Sanitary Code. Few writers wield a more trenchant or facile pen, which has done good service in advancing the sanitary and material interests of the city.

Dr. Jones' political views from the first attached him to the democratic party, with which he has always acted. On different occasions his name has been mentioned for nomination for prominent official positions; but he has always declined every call that was likely to draw him from the pursuit of his profession, the chief ambition of his life. He was married February 15, 1851, with Miss Adeline Knaggs, a daughter of John Knaggs, an early pioneer of Lucas county, who was born in Detroit, and whose father was United States Indian Agent at that point during the war of 1812-15; he having been among those made prisoners by the British forces at the surrender of Detroit and General Hull's army, in 1812. Few families were equally prominent with that of Mrs. Jones, in the earlier history of the Maumee Valley. Five children have been born to Doctor and Mrs. Jones—three sons and two daughters.

Dr. Jones was one of the gentlemen selected by Governor Foraker as a member of the city board of gas trustees. He was the first president of the board and an active worker up to the time of his illness a week or so ago.

ALGER IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 30.—General Russell A. Alger arrived here this morning and will speak at a memorial celebration this afternoon. James S. Clarkson is expected to meet this evening at the Grand Pacific hotel and there is naturally some talk as to the political bearing of the interview. Gen. Alger had nothing to say this morning to the reporters.

HENNESSY MONUMENT UNVEILED

New Orleans, May 30.—The monument erected to the late Superintedent of Police David C. Hennessey, who was assassinated by the Mafia in October, 1890, was unveiled at the Metarie cemetery yesterday. Addresses were made by ex-Mayor Shakspeare and Mayor Fitzpatrick.

BODY FOUND.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 30.—The body of D. M. Carey, of New York, who was drowned in Wheeling creek last February was found yesterday in the Ohio river at Moundsville, 12 miles below this city.

DEAD ON THE TRACK.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 30.—The dead body of James Wilburn was found on the railroad track last Saturday. It is thought he was robbed and murdered.

PROMINENT BROKER DEAD.

Boston, May 30.—George Wm. Bond, senior partner in the wool brokerage firm of George Wm. Bond & Co., of this city, died yesterday, aged 80 years.

AT ROCHESTER.

The President and Party Make the Most of Their Time.

Rochester, N. Y., May 30.—The dedication of the soldiers' monument under the auspices of the national administration as represented by President Harrison, Postmaster General Wanamaker, and the state administration represented by Gov. Flower, has attracted great crowds of visitors to the city. The dedication takes place this afternoon. President Harrison will deliver a brief address.

The day at Rochester dawned clear and warm. The president made an early start. He was called soon after 6 o'clock this morning to go to Ontario beach, where a fish breakfast had been prepared for him. Gov. Flower had also been called and Secretary Noble. Mr. Blount, of Georgia; Gen. Henderson, of Illinois, and many others of the city's guests had sacrificed sleep for the enjoyment of this novelty. Representative Greenleaf, Gen. Curtis and Hon. Fred Douglas were among the excursionists. Coffee was served to the president in his room and to the other members of the party in the dining room at 6:45.

Representative Outhwaite, of Ohio, who came in last night, also joined the party.

The local committee, headed by Hon. Charles S. Baker, which called for the president at 6:50 found him ready to start. In spite of the earliness of the hour there was a small crowd at the hotel entrance waiting to see the president. The party went on foot to the corner of State street, one block away, where the private car of the Rochester Street Railway company was waiting. It was a richly-decorated electric motor car, carpeted and furnished with upholstered wicker chairs. The interior effect was that of a drawing room. The run to the lake over the electric road was made in about 30 minutes. The members of the Rochester Wheelsmen's league have constituted themselves a presidential escort for the morning and they kept along with the car pretty steadily on its run along the boulevard. Representatives of all the Rochester clubs were in line, including the Ladies' National Bicycle club.

UNCLE SAM'S SERVANTS

Assisting Green Goods Men in Swindling the Public.

Government Detectives Claim the Credit of Capturing Volkmar and Tracy in This City.

It now transpires that Volkmar and Tracy, the two green goods men, were ably seconded in their efforts to swindle the public in this vicinity by Uncle Sam's servants—the rural postmasters.

The scheme is a new and novel one. The men sent circulars to the postmasters in small Western towns saying they were getting up a directory of farmers, and for the dollar they inclosed they asked lists of wealthy men. These lists Mr. Wanamaker's subordinates gladly furnished, with the result that several backwoods farmers were buncoed.

It appears that the postoffice inspectors would pluck the laurels from the brows of Detectives John Manley and Jack Carew and take the credit of the capture to themselves.

A New York special says Postoffice Inspector Jacobs has returned from a month's trip through Canada and the United States. He has been chasing after two well-known "green goods" men—W. F. Valkmar and W. G. Turner. He finally captured them at Toledo, O. With the capture of these two green goods men a new scheme has been discovered.

It don't go. Toledo detectives made the capture, even lacking a clue, and they, and they alone, deserve the credit.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Dr. Quigley's Position Defined.

To the Editor: I hear much censure regarding Dr. Quigley's attitude towards the truant law. Now, if the reverend gentleman believes said law to be a bad one, then he is not morally bound to obey it. Indeed, it is far better—more moral—to refuse obedience to a bad law than to conform to it. This is the position taken by the most eminent Christian moralists. It is true that those who refuse to obey what they consider an unjust, or wicked law, must take the consequences of such refusal. Of course individuals are not competent to decide what laws to obey and what not to obey, and, at the same time, hope to escape the penalties of disobedience. Governments have often passed some very wicked laws, and there were those who chose to disobey them and accept the consequences thereof. Such persons are to be honored for their adherence to the dictates of conscience, even at the expense, as was sometimes the case, of their lives. As to the law which Dr. Quigley refuses to obey, I have nothing to say. I am not called upon, at present, to pass any judgment upon it. But this I am sure of, we have no right to censure or condemn any one who refuses obedience to a law, so long as he bows submissively to its penalties. When the fugitive law was in force, a law to make slave-hounds of the northern people, many refused to obey it. If they suffered the consequences of a violation of it, by aiding in the escape of fugitive slaves, they were martyrs to liberty.

If Dr. Quigley's conscience moves him to the course he is pursuing, the nlet him not be blamed for respecting his conscience, and what he may honestly consider his duty to his church and his God, rather than a merely man-made statute. Again, I say I am not defending or opposing the law in question. My only purpose is to state, in a few words, a well-known principle of that law, which in anti-slavery times we used to call the "Higher Law." It was this law that was alluded to when it was written "that it is better to obey God than man."

CHARLES CRAVENS.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Senator Quay has again advised his Pennsylvania henchmen to keep their mouths shut. This is the advice the criminal lawyer always gives his clients with poor defenses and bad records.—St. Louis Republic.

If Blaine would say the word, he would only have to touch the button. The Minneapolis convention would do the rest.—Oneida Dispatch.

A coal dealer says that the price of coal will be raised gradually until the people are accustomed to the trust. This is like sawing off a man's finger's one by one until he gets accustomed to the buzz-saw.—Chicago Mail.

Dreibunds are not so popular in this country as that the republicans, democrats and prohibitionists will try their hands at one. Our three parties are even more distrustful of one another than are the various European powers.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The endowment orders up in New Hampshire, following the example of those in Massachusetts, are going into politics. They will probably discover that public sentiment is a good deal more powerful than their machinations. That has been the experience of these organizations in Massachusetts up to date.—Boston Herald.

It will indeed be a lesson in patriotism should the Grand Army veterans throughout the country join in the public school celebration of Discovery day next October. Commander-in Chief Palmer advocates having the veterans act as an escort for the children, and also assist the scholars when they raise and salute the flag on the school buildings. It is a good idea, and should be adopted.—New York Mail and Express.

The time has come for the democrats to enjoy a very pretty republican quarrel until after the Minneapolis convention acts. As to the final outcome of the campaign they have no great cause for uneasiness, for unless the people have very materially changed their sentiments since 1890, with tariff reform as the issue, whether the tickets in the field are Cleveland against Blaine, Cleveland against Harrison or Cleveland against any one else, the result at the polls next November will be the same, and Cleveland will go into the white house on the 4th of March, 1893.—Richmond Times.

Signs are not wanting that indicate a determination on the part of republicans of the extreme type to introduce the bloody shirt and other passionate elements of controversy into the coming presidential campaign. Congressman Johnson, of Indiana, started the ball in motion in the house of representatives yesterday, and there are men enough like him in other walks of life to keep up the excitement. At this stage of the country's growth, however, the men who attempt to arouse sectional feelings will meet with but little sympathy. They are the enemies of the nation, patisans, place hunters and cheap politicians who deserve no consideration, and should be relegated to the small constituencies from which they come.—New York News.

THREE ART STORIES.

What Was Alleged to Have Happened to Some Realistic Pictures.

Here's a story that has just been given me and that will bear newspaper repetition. It was told as having been the rounds of the "art circles," and its original reciter is quite unknown to the fame he most certainly deserves.

Three painters were gathered around a table in a down town cafe and were telling tales as to their artistical capacities, tales which their general appearance rather failed to stamp as truthful.

Said one:

"I once painted a picture representing a thunder storm in all its glory. The lightning flashed, the thunder roared, the limbs of the trees shook beneath the awful blast, the rain descended in torrents, and so natural and true to life was all this that persons on first seeing my effort instinctively raised their umbrellas."

"Pshaw," said No. 2, "I once painted a picture that was truly marvelous in its truth to life, though I do say it myself. It was for the exhibition, and received more general praise than any other, although prejudiced critics failed to notice it. It was a representation of a scene in the Arctic regions, and so lifelike—or rather deathlike, for there was no life in view—was the scene that the mercury in a thermometer, on being brought into the same room with my picture, immediately fell 20 degrees, although a good fire was in the apartment."

Silence, deep and awful, followed. At a period sufficiently distant from the close of No. 2's narrative No. 3 took up the company's time. Said he:

"Gentlemen, you must surely remember my portrait of a man that was so well spoken of a short while ago. No? I must tell you about it. He was robed in the apparel of the period and so absolutely manlike was the portrait's every feature that it was necessary—gentlemen, I say it on my honor—it was necessary to shave it twice a week."

Then the company adjourned.—N. Y. Herald.

LIFTS AN ORCHESTRA.

Remarkable Feat of Rasso, the Strong Man of Berlin.

Berlin has been full of curiosities during the past winter. Genuine Indian fakirs, freaks of every description, and woman prize-fighters have run a wild gamut at the Panoptikum, and filled it to overflowing night after night.

Renz's circus, by way of competition, has, during the past week, introduced a novel athletic performance which is a decided variety from the feat of the "woman with the iron jaw," and the other hereditary circus attractions. The powerful athlete, Rasso, is the originator of this novel feat of extraordinary strength and endurance. By means of an ingenious device he lifts from the ground an orchestra of 12 men with instruments. The musicians are not at all afraid of being suddenly dumped, for Rasso has demonstrated on every night that he can return them as gently and as safely to the ground as he lifted them therefrom.

The orchestra is seated on a platform playing one of the numbers of the program while they are thus being raised into the air as shown in the cut.—Berlin letter in St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

TELEPATHY.

Last night we met, where others meet,
To part as others part;
And greeted her as others greet,
Who greet not heart to heart.

We talked of other things, and then
To other folk passed by;
You turned and sat with other men,
With other women I.

And yet a world of things unsaid
Meanwhile between us passed;
Your cheek my phantom kiss flushed red,
And you looked up at last.

And then your glance met mine midway
Across the chattering crowd;
And all that heart to heart can say
Was in that glance avowed.

—Owen Meredith.

Dr. Griesbach, of the Geological Survey of India, who has returned to Rangoon from a tour of exploration to the north of the Bhamo, reports that near Myitkina, in a district absolutely uninhabited, he has discovered most remarkable alluvial gold deposits, stretching for a great distance up the course of streams and no less than 15 miles in width.

Mrs. T. Harrison Garrett, of Baltimore, has lent her valuable collection of etchings and photographs to the authorities of Princeton college to be used for an exhibition at Princeton during commencement week.

Patrolman James Monahan, of New York, of whom it was related a day or two ago that he had fallen heir to an Irish fortune of $2,000,000, makes haste to inform his friends that the legacy only amounts to $755.

GATHERING AT SYRACUSE.

Big Preparations for the Anti-Snap Convention To-Morrow.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 30.—Memorial Day is lost sight of here in the preparations for a convention. A number of the prominent leaders in the May convention movement are already here, and from the sentiment expressed there is to be no change in the original plan, and a contesting delegation, not a mere protesting one, will be sent to Chicago.

FARMER TOMPKINS AND THE CYCLOPAEDIA.

A feller came out here to-day 'n' showed a book to me;
One 'at I'd surely oughter have—twelve parts, 'nd one was free.
He said ez how 'twas sure to tell me all I'd wanter know,
'N' called the thing a Cyclopee—or suthin' kinder so.
It seemed a purty fine old book—a reg'lar sort o' prize—
Until I ast him questions, when I seen he'd told me lies.

"Tells ev'ything!" says I. "That's good—in fac', sir, that's the best
Kind of a book I ever seed, but think I'd like a test
Before I buy her. Lemme see! What does the volume say
About the prospects of the comin' year for oats 'n' hay?"
I thought he'd flop for laughin' when I ast the feller that.
'N' when I ast him "What's the joke?" he looked almighty flat.

"It don't prognosticate," says he. "That ain't the p'int!" says I.
"What I'm a-astin' you is will the blame thing prophesy?"
'N' then he turned the pages quick, 'n' showed me lots o' stuff
About Egyptians, and a squib about an Earl named Duff.
But when I ast him if it told a cure for tater bugs,
He said it didn't, but it had a history of rugs!

'Nd I'll be derned if that there book he said would tell so much
Had anything on any page I'd ever care to touch;
'N' then—haw! haw!—I chucked that pert young swindler from the place
So quick he hadn't time to take his smile down off his face;
'Nd after him I threw his bag 'n' twelve-part Cyclopee—
My great-grandfather's almanac's) still good enough for me!

Mr. Bayard was interested to learn that he who came to the rescue was a pensioner of the civil war, but a little astonished at the information that the man drew his pension on the score of a weak back.

An apparatus for photographing bullets in flight consists of a box lined with black cloth, in which the photographic plate is exposed; of an electrical condenser formed of a plate of glass about a foot square; of a smaller condenser in the form of a bottle, to act as a starter of the spark, and of a system of wire circuits and knobs to give the spark which throws the shadow of the bullet on the plate and thus takes the photograph. The bullet enters and leaves the box by two holes, covered with paper to exclude the light; and in passing the plate the bullet touches the terminals of two wires, composed of thin lead wire, thus partially completing the circuit. A small flash passes from the smaller condenser, causing a larger flash to pass between the knobs of the plate condenser inside the box, and this flash lasting less than one-millionth of a second, takes the photograph of the bullet, no lens being employed.

A WOMAN'S MISTAKES.

Alice Craig married at seventeen. Her husband, a man many years older than herself, had few tastes in common with her. In the early days of his acquaintance with Alice, and of his marriage, her simplicity possessed for him a piquant charm. This vanished, however, as might have been expected.

Alice had never loved her husband. She knew little of life from observation, and at length she came to comfort herself by the idea that the gradual separation of interests, never very firmly united—for they had not been welded at the furnace of love—was inevitable, and an experience common to all.

Thus in all the years of their married life Mr. Craig went his own worldly way, and Alice trod her alone, with only her sweet child to soothe and cheer her. Jasper was 12 years of age when a little brother was born to him, to be his delight, and to add to the mother's comfort, under the almost entire alienation of her husband.

Mr. Craig had almost entirely deserted his home. Alice had no longer any influence over him. She feared him almost as much as he despised her, and gladly turned to the solace afforded by her children.

Alice was traveling with her children when summoned to the death-bed of her husband. He passed away, and she was a widow, but not more in heart than she had been during many years of estrangement.

Alice was still beautiful. She had preserved the child-like innocence of expression that was the index of her unsullied soul, and when she stood at the altar with Lawrence Clephane, the difference in years was scarcely apparent. Only for the tall youth, with deep sadness on his face, who stood behind her, her son Jasper, no one would have deemed her a woman already within the shadows of middle life.

Alice drank deeply of the cup of joy for a little time. Lawrence Clephane did not weary at once of his bride. He had really loved her very much, but not so much that he was not jealous of Jasper's devotion to her, and her own great fondness for her son.

This was the entering wedge of discontent. Lawrence Clephane and Jasper would never be friends. Jasper would not treat the man he looked upon as an intruder, and who was but six years his senior, as a father, and Lawrence was jealous of every caress that passed between this loving son and devoted mother. Too late Alice regretted the hasty step she had taken.

Lawrence Clephane had perhaps seen his mistake before, and had wanted a pretext for desertion. This furnished him with one, and gladly leaving his invalid wife to the society of her sons, he plunged into the vortex of society and dissipation.

Alice pined at home, and Jasper nourished his fierce displeasure as he watched her paling cheek, and saw the white strands stealing through her golden curls.

Lawrence Clephane became a confirmed drunkard, and at length only visited his home for the purpose of obtaining money with which Alice never refused to supply him. It was during one of these visits, some 10 years after their marriage, that the terrible event occurred which forms the catastrophe of this brief sketch.

He came, as usual, with no words of affection, but with a demand for fresh supplies. Alice was alone, and she arose and closed the door between her apartment and that where Edwin, a feeble boy of 15, sat reading, that he might not witness the dreaded interview.

Erwin, shuddering in the closed room beyond, heard fierce words from Lawrence Clephane, and his mother's gentler tones, now and then broken by sobs. At length the altercation grew louder on the part of the infuriated man, and the boy could bear it no longer. He entered the room just as Lawrence Clephane lifted his hand to deal a blow upon his wife's pale, uplifted cheek. The sight was too much, for the boy, with a ferocity very foreign to his gentle nature, sprang upon the maddened wretch. A desperate hand-to-hand struggle ensued. The combatants made their way out of the room, and Jasper Craig, who had been hurriedly summoned from his office by the affrighted servants, entered the hall in time to receive in his arms the senseless form of his brother, which Lawrence Clephane had hurled with giant strength from the landing above.

Hastily transferring his burden to other arms he rushed up the stairs and confronted the intruder. He had retreated to his wife's room, and, seizing her fiercely by the arm, was ordering her, with the most fearful threats, to comply with his demand for the large sum which was needed then, in some emergency of his vile life, to save him from utter ruin. Thus Jasper found him, and, exasperated beyond all power of control, he struck the blow that made him, henceforth, in his own eyes, a murderer.

There was an inquest. Jasper Craig had surrendered himself to abide the decision of the law.

Sympathy of the public was all upon his side—he had done a gallant deed, women said, and men, with clenched hands, vowed they would have done no less. And he was set free.

Alice Clephane never rose from her bed of sickness, but lived scarcely a month after the death of her husband. And Erwin rose from his only to pace with slow strides, and by the aid of his attendant, the room which was henceforth to bound his external world.

Jasper Craig, justified by all the world, yet bore in his soul the ever-present sting of conscience, branding him a murderer. And thus the sad mistake of Alice Craig's life, after wasting its fairest flowers of hope, destroying herself, and all but one of those who had mingled in its later scenes, perpetuated themselves in a fearful heritage of regret and remorse that he must bear, faint with the heavy burthen, to the grave which only can set him free.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Mrs. Sala is about to start a new paper for women. With the paper G. A. Sala's name will be associated, but it will be chiefly contributed to by members of the opposite sex.

The queen has decided to confer the Order of the Garter upon the king of Portugal and the king of Wurtemburg. There will probably be a special mission to Lisbon for the investiture of King Charles.

The sultan of Turkey suffers from a severe nervous disorder, which at times renders him unfit for the transaction of business, and in a less exalted personage would probably justify suspicions of temporary insanity.

Senator Ransom of North Carolina is the best dressed and most polished gentleman in the senate, and when he is rigged out to kill and putting on his most Chesterfieldian airs his brother members lean back in silent admiration.

Vasili Verestchagin, the famous Russian painter, was bitten in the leg recently by a mad dog. Although the injured flesh was cut away immediately it is said that M. Verestchagin will place himself under the care of Dr. Pasteur in Paris.

Secretary Foster has decorated his office with portraits of Ohio men who have been secretaries of the treasury. There are four of them—Ewing, Corwin, Chase and Sherman, a fine-looking quartet of faces. The only other portrait admitted to this fellowship is that of Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the treasury.

The Hon. John W. Foster is a man with peculiar power of application, who accomplishes much more solid work than diplomatic personages are generally suspected of performing. Mr. Foster is the first man at the state department in the morning, aside from the messengers, and is likly to be one of the last to leave in the evening.

It is John D. Rockefeller's custom to open his morning mail at the breakfast table. The letters from unknown writers are distributed among the children, who peruse them and mark upon each envelope the disposition which should be made of the case. Afterward Mr. Rockefeller himself goes over the correspondence and revises the work, but to one unacquainted with such matters the accuracy of judgment displayed by the little ones in passing on the merits of begging requests can be nothing less than startling.

Durham Miners Will Stand for Their Rights.

London, May 30.—The ballot of the Durham miners shows to-day a large majority against accepting the terms of the coal owners of a reduction of 13 1-2 per cent.

The miners are willing to take a 10 per cent. reduction, but they believe that the masters in demanding a greater reduction are trying to take advantage of the situation of the miners and to make them accept terms that under other circumstances would not be suggested.

Another appeal has been made to coal owners and others throughout the country to sustain the Durham strikers and the miners have been much encouraged by the contributions that have come in during the past few days.

MISFIT MISFIT MISFIT

A COBDEN SPEECH.

Interesting Description of the Great Free Trader,

And His Manner of Propounding His Beliefs—A Bit of the Emerson—Thoreau Correspondence.

Emerson on Cobden, from the Emerson-Thoreau Correspondence, a second part of which is issued in the June Atlantic, is worth quoting:

Last night, as I believe I have already told Lidian, I heard the best man in England make perhaps his best speech,—Cobden, who is the cor cordis, the object of honor and belief, to risen and rising England: a man of great discretion, who never overstates nor states prematurely, nor has a particle of unnecessary genius or hope to mislead him, nor of wasted strength; but calm, sure of his fact, simple and nervous in stating it as a boy in laying down the rules of the game of football which have been violated,—above all, educated by his dogma of free trade, led on by it to new lights and correlative liberties, as our abolitionists have been, by their principle, to so many reforms. Then this man has made no mistake. He has dedicated himself to his work of convincing this kingdom of the impolicy of corn-laws, lectured in every town where they would hear him, and at last carried his point against immense odds, and yet has never accepted any compromise or stipulation from the government. He might have been in the ministry. He will never go there except with absolute empire for his principle, which cannot yet be awarded. He had neglected and abandoned his prosperous calico printing to his partners. And the triumphant league have subscribed between sixty and eighty thousand pounds as the Cobden fund, whereby he is made independent.

It was quite beautiful, even sublime, last night, to notice the moral radiations which this free trade dogma seemed to throw out, all unlooked for, to the great audience, who instantly and delightedly adopted them. Such contrasts of sentiment to the vulgar hatred and fear of France and jealousy of America that pervade the newspapers! Cobden himself looked thoughtful and surprised, as if he saw a new future. Old Colonel Perronet Thompson—the father of free trade, whose catechism on the corn-laws set all these Brights and Cobdens first on cracking this nut—was present, and spoke in a very vigorous, rasp-like tone. (Milner) Gibson, a member of the British government, a great Suffolk squire, and a convert to these opinions, made a very satisfactory speech; and our old abolition friend, George Thompson, brought up the rear, though he, whom I now heard for the first time, is merely a piece of rhetoric, and not a man of facts and figures and English solidity, like the rest. The audience play no inactive part, but the most acute and sympathizing, and the agreeable result was the demonstration of the arithmetical as well as the moral optimism of peace and generosity.

AN ACCOMPLISHED WOMAN.

Her Lover Failed to Recognize the Scope of a Modern Education.

The young man was very fond of his fiancee. His own education had been none too liberal and it was a source of gratulation to him that his future wife had graduated from one of the best female seminaries in the country, where she had enjoyed every advantage that money could afford, says the Detroit Tribune. And when he came to her home that evening it filled him with inexpressible delight to gaze upon her mature beauty, her queenly carriage, her finished manners. As the hours wore away, however, there came upon him the disagreeable impression that her bearing was less cordial than usual. In time the impression grew to be a settled conviction. There was no mistake about it. She was cold and haughty. Tortured to desperation, he spoke at last.

"Tell me," he passionately exclaimed, "why this sudden change?"

Her lip curled with scorn.

"If you were a gentleman," she icily declared, "you would not need to inquire."

The words came like crushing blows to his agitated being.

"May I ask you to explain?"

He was pale with emotion and his voice wsa husky.

"Certainly."

Gliding across the room she parted the window curtains and gazed gloomily forth into the darkness.

"The moment you came in," she continued, with a calmness that betrayed the deepest feeling, "I detected at once the odor of tobacco about your clothes."

In an instant he was on his knees at her feet.

"Forgive me, dearest," he pleaded, "I did not know that you objected to———"

She waved her hand grandly and she never seemed more beautiful than in this, the moment of his agony.

"Even now," she exclaimed, "I am certain that you have cigarettes about your person. Is it not so?"

The suppliant groaned.

"It is true," he faltered, "but if you say the word I shall never smoke again."

The stately girl laughed ironically.

"Oh, never mind," she sneered in mock levity. "But I wish to say that I have no use for a man who will sit in a lady's company all the evening and never offer her a cigarette although he has a pocket full of them."

For the first time there dawned upon him something like an adequate conception of the scope of the modern feminine education.

HOW TO GROW BRAINS.

Discovery of an Australian Doctor and Some of His Experiments.

If the theory of Dr. Kerby Hopper, the Australian doctor, that brains can be made to grow and strongly developed traits of character can be modified by the application of electricity is correct, says the Philadelphia Item, a wonderful and new field is opened up to the efforts of the scientist. Dr. Hopper, it would seem, has treated a number of cases in which he has applied his system of electricity to moderate or develop various bumps or cerebral nodules whose presence or deficiency is believed by him to be responsible for many human weaknesses as well as criminal proclivities.

Out of 106 cases we are told the doctor has succeeded in every instance but one, and the patient in this case was an aborigine of New Zealand, who was found, upon examination, to have no brains at all. Of course, in such a case as this, the doctor might be excused for his failure to develop nodules. In another case, about which the doctor does not say much, he experimented for some time with a young person described as "Ethel—aged 17," whose cerebral nodule took the shape of an inordinate passion for the stage and a certain young actor thereon.

After a series of experiments lasting over several months, from which we may be permitted to remark that it is surprising the unfortunate young lady came out with any brains at all, her parents were assured that she was entirely cured; that her love for the stage had been entirely destroyed; that she laughed to utter scorn the idea of marrying a poor actor for love. It will doubtless cause a thrill of joy to the romantically inclined to learn that Ethel's perverse nodule impelled her to rise from her bed on the first night she came back home, squeeze herself through a scullery window and run off incontinently with her lover to a minister, by whom they were immediately married.

It was very wrong, of course, for the giddy young person to set thus at defiance the laws of science, but perhaps she was not to blame for it. Love nodules, in whatever brain they are situated, or whatever clime fostered, do not seem to yield readily to the cold laws of reason or science. It is not known whether Dr. Hopper has concluded to try more issues with love-sick maidens or not, but prudence should suggest to him the advisability of directing his efforts in other directions. Love nodules have baffled before greater men than he, and greater powers than even that of electro-magnetism. Love has a magnetism of its own, compared to which the doctor's article is as a painted fire to the reality.

THE SPANISH BULL FIGHT.

Philosophically Viewed by a Spanish Author.

It is, no doubt, a sublime spectacle to see a brave fellow, with no more defense or shield than a waving red scarf, clothed in silk more fitting for a ball or fiesta than for a terrible combat, stand up to face an angry and powerful brute, bring it down on him, and give it its death with a few inches of cold steel. If by ill fortune it should prove to be the human combatant that falls, his death, though not moral, has a touch of grandeur, and the pity and terror occasioned by it are purified by beauty, in due conformity with the laws of tragedy laid down by the great Greek philosopher.

The worst of it is that to reach this supreme moment of death we must first look on at the coarse and brutal torturing of the noble creature which is doomed to die; we must see its skin pierced with darts and spikes which remain in it unless they are torn out with fragments of the hide, and look on at the atrocious cruelty inflicted on the hapless horses. They vary the show by the convulsions and snortings of their death agony; their blood and entrails are spilled on the sand; trampling on their own bowels, on they go, nevertheless, under the spurs of the picador and the blows on their hollow flanks dealt by a villainous rascal who ignominiously and grotesquely comes behind, belaboring them as they go, to increase their anguish and wring a remnant of motion and energy from a dying beast which, even though it can not think, has nerves and can feel as we do. Before such scenes as these can we have hearts so hard as to know no pity, or so little artistic feeling or grace of manners as not to be disgusted by their coarseness and baseness, or such brazen stomachs as not to turn positively sick?

In short, the death of the bull is fine if the matador strikes true and gives it no more than two or three stabs; but frankly—and I am speaking in all sincerity, nor am I given to rodomontade or sentimentality—all the preliminaries are an abomination, view them as we may. And yet, and in spite of all this, bull-fights will not cease. We ourselves would not dare to demand their suppression, for there is something national and romantic about them which appeals to us. We would be content with certain reforms if such were possible. We should almost be satisfied if the horses were spared such a terrible and hideous death.—Juan Valera, in his novel "Don Braulio."

WONDERFUL CLOCK

Made by a Polish Watchmaker, and to be Exhibited at the World's Fair.

The Warschawskij Dujewnik, a paper published in Warsaw, Poland, describes a wonderful clock which will be exhibited in Chicago. The clock is the result of six years of earnest work by a watchmaker, named Goldfaden, in Warsaw. It represents a railroad station, with waiting rooms for travelers, telegraph and ticket offices, and outside promenade and a fountain in operation. Along side of the station are seen the tracks, with signal-booths, switches and water reservoirs,—in fact, everything belonging to a European railroad depot. In the dome of the central tower of the building is a clock showing the local time, while in each of two other towers there is a clock giving the time, respectively, of New York and Pekin. In both of the towers, last mentioned, a calendar and barometer are seen. Every quarter of an hour it gets lively at the station. First the telegraph operator does his work—issues the telegram to signify that the track is clear. Then the doors of the building are opened; the station-keeper and his assistants appear on the platform; at the ticket office the cashier is noticeable; the guards leave the signal-booths and hoist the barrier; a long row of passengers is observable in front of the ticket office; baggage is hauled; one of the guards rings the bell and a train runs into the station. While the whistle of the locomotive is blown, the train stops; a workman goes along the row of coaches and hits the axles with a hammer, while another one pumps water into the water tank of the locomotive. After a third signal with the station-bell the train starts and disappears in a tunnel on the opposite side. The station-keeper and his assistants leave the platform and the doors of the depot building are closed, the guards enter their booths and quiet reigns. After fifteen minutes the same trouble commences again.

THE FLIM-FLAM GAME.

The Poor Man Was a Cripple and Needed Helping.

Mrs. Young is the keeper of a restaurant on West Madison street, but though young in name she is older in experience than she was a day or two ago.

It was just after the noon hour on Thursday when a stranger entered the restaurant. He was short, thick-set and well dressed. His light mustache curled slightly beneath the spring zephyrs and his left arm was cut pompadour fashion and carried in a sling. Taking an envelope from his pocket that was directed to "John McMaster, Esq., 123 West Third street, Burlington, Ia.," he laid it on the counter and asked:

"Can you give me a $5 bill for five silver dollars?"

Mrs. Young said that she could.

"Will you kindly put the bill in this envelope for me?"

Mrs. Young's heart was overflowing with pity for the poor cripple, and she at once answered in the affirmative. She did so, and the stranger, drawing the envelope over beneath the elbow of his crippled arm, was engaged like the maid in the nursery rhyme "in counting out her money."

Suddenly he remarked: "Why, I thought I had $5 here, but I have only $4.80. Just keep this letter a few moments and I'll go out and get the balance."

The proposition looked to be a fair one. Mrs. Young took the envelope. The stranger picked up the change and then he vanished. The long hours drifted away. Mrs. Young glanced uneasily at the clock.

"He cometh not," she said.

Then she became suspicious. She would open the letter just to see that the $5 William was there all right. She did so. There was no $5 William there. Scrawled on a blank sheet of paper were these words:

"Don't say a word."

She heeded not the advice; she told her neighbors. She was mad clear through.

Mrs. Young had been flim-flammed, and now she will not change a bill for the best-looking customer that frequents her eating establishment.

FEMALE SWINDLERS

Who Could Not Thrive in a Protestant Country, However.

A sacrilegious fraud has been practiced on the superstitious inhabitants of a village not far from Cosenza, in Calabria, where is a rock upon which legend says that the Madonna once appeared, says a correspondent. For some time two women of the place went about with their eyes turned up to heaven in ecstacy, and uttering disjointed words as they falteringly pursued their way. Having thus prepared the minds of their neighbors for something mysterious, they gradually let out that they were empowered to put all those who would pay for it into relation with the Madonna.

Very soon they were able to set to work. They led their victims by night to the rock, and on its summit, amid the sound of a bell and the flickering light of a torch, the Blessed Virgin appeared, stretched out her arms to receive the offerings in money or goods, and replied to the petitions tendered. One woman gave f.30 and prayed to be blessed with a son; another offered f.500 to be saved from hell when she died, she having deserved punishment for cheating in her trade of a baker. A wife paid f.12 to have her sick husband cured; f.30 were offered in favor of a patient about to undergo a surgical operation, etc.

One of the two swindlers represented the Virgin, hiding behind the rock till she was summoned, and disguising her voice when she answered questions, while the other lighted the torch and rang the bell. The two women have been arrested, and will be tried for cheating.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, or widow. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies now to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE. Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

To-day being a holiday there is no trading in the grain pits or stock goods and consequently no quotations.

Chief Harrington's weather and crop bulletin for last week is as follows:

The cool weather has continued in all districts east of the Rocky mountains, the greatest departure from the normal occurring over the Gulf states and the Ohio and Central Mississippi valleys, where the daily temperature was about 10 degrees below the normal. It was from three to six degrees cooler than usual along the Atlantic coast and in the northwest. About the normal temperature prevailed in California, while it was warmer than usual over the plateau regions and in Oregon and Washington. There was less cloudiness than usual in the central valleys and northwest, and notwithstanding the deficiency in temperature the week was the most favorable of the season for farm work. The season continues late in all the districts east of the Rocky mountains, the deficiency in temperature amounting to from two to four degrees per day throughout the central valleys and gulf states.

Precipitation.

Excessive rains occurred during the week throughout New England, the middle Atlantic states and lower lake region, over a large portion of which area the actual rainfall exceeded the normal by more than one inch. Small areas of excessive rainfall are reported from Tennessee, Florida, northern California, and from southern Rocky mountain stations. In all other sections the rainfall was less than usual, and only light showers occurred in the northwest, southwest and upper lake region.

The seasonal rainfall continues largely in excess throughout the central valleys, the lake regions, and middle Atlantic states, although the excess has been somewhat reduced in the west. On the Pacific coast the rainfall since March 1 has been generally in excess of the average amount, while large deficiencies are reported from southern Texas and northern Florida.

Conditions in the Buckeye State.

Ohio—Wet soil and showers retarded farm work; little corn planted in northern sections; plants turning yellow in middle and southern sections; wheat and grass growing well; too wet for oats.

The Improvement in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., May 30.—The weekly report of the Michigan weather service bureau shows that the temperature and rainfall has been below the normal. There has been a slight but noticeable improvement in the condition of the crops generally throughout the state. The rainfall being below the normal has given the soil a chance to dry out by evaporation of the moisture, and this has given the farmers an opportunity of getting the ground in shape for seeding of corn and other late spring grains. The section suffering most from excessive rains is the southern tier of counties. An abundant crop of hay seems to be assured, while the prospects for a large yield or fruit were never better.

Favorable to Iowa Farmers.

Des Moines, Ia., May 30.—This week's weather crop bulletin reports cooler, dry weather with an abundance of sunshine, giving farmers their first favorable week for field work. About one-half the corn planting is done, but it is probable the acreage will be considerably reduced even with the most favorable conditions in the future. Wheat and oats on uplands are doing well. On flooded bottoms and undrained fields the crops were very light. Fruit was slightly injured by frost and cold winds.

HIS PERSONAL EXPERIENCE.

Hon. James W. Husted, while serving his sixth term as speaker of the assembly of the state of New York, writes:

"State of New York, Assembly Chamber, "Albany, Jan. 16, 1890.

"I desire once more to bear my testimony to the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters. I have used them for twenty-five years past, and can conscientiously commend them as the best external remedy that I have known. Years ago, when thrown from a carriage and seriously injured, I gave them a thorough trial. In a very short time the pain I was suffering disappeared, and within a week I was entirely relieved. On another occasion, when suffering from a severe cough, which threatened pulmonary difficulties, which I was recommended to go to Florida to relieve, I determined to test the plasters again. I applied them to my chest and between the shoulder blades, and in less than a fortnight was entirely cured. On still another occasion when suffering from an attack of rheumatism in the shoulder to such an extent that I could scarcely raise my arm, I again resorted to the plasters, and within a very few days the rheumatism entirely disappeared. I have them constantly by me, whether at home or abroad. My family as well as myself have found them to be a sovereign remedy, both for external and internal troubles. I never had but one kidney trouble in my life, and the application of the plasters cured me in a week. I desire, as I said before, to bear my testimony in a public way to their efficacy, and I know of no better way of doing so than by giving you my personal experience."

SILVER CONVENTION.

Subscription Taken Up to Carry on the Fight.

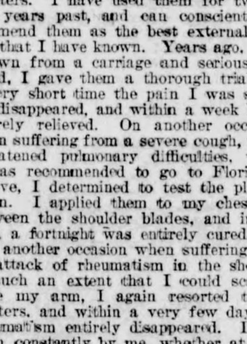
Washington, May 30.—The last day's session of the silver convention was devoted to the business incident to the close of the meeting. The executive board was authorized to employ a corresponding secretary, whose duty it shall be to distribute all current literature on the silver issue.

Chairman Warner said it was necessary for the silver people to raise funds enough to offset the $500.00 which, he said, he has learned on good authority had been raised by anti-sliverites to defeat any legislation by congress in favor of free silver and to suppress that issue in the approaching campaign.

About $2,000 was subscribed and guaranteed by the delegates present and on behalf of the silver leagues, pricipally in Colorado, to carry on the silver fight. Resolutions were adopted thanking Chairman Warner and other officers of the convention for their exertions in behalf of the bi-metallic cause, after which the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

Wapakoneta, O., May 30.—(Special)—Yesterday the marshal of Sidney arrested in that city Mrs. James Fair Peterman, and brought her here and lodged her in the county jail on the charge of bigamy.



Beauty is no Inheritance.

Beauty often depends on plumpness, so does health. Cosmetics do not beautify, but often destroy a healthy complexion. A natural rosy and healthy color can not be had by the use of cosmetics, but only through the health of the body in general. Secure this result by the use of the genuine imported Carlsbad Sprudel Salt. Take it early in the morning before breakfast. It clears the complexion and produces healthy flesh and color. Obtain the genuine, which has signature of "Eisner & Mendelson Co., Agents, New York," on every bottle.

Why is it that some houses always need repainting?

The owner has them painted in the Spring; by Fall they have a dingy, rusty, faded look.

A neighbor's always looks fresh, clean, and newly painted, and yet is not re-painted oftener than every four or five years.

The first "economizes" by using "CHEAP" paint; the second uses nothing but

Strictly Pure White Lead

The first spends three times as much for paint in five years, and his buildings never look as well.

Almost everybody knows that good paint can only be had by using strictly pure White Lead. The difficulty is lack of care in selecting. Any of the following brands are strictly pure White Lead and nothing else; they are standard and well known—established by the test of years:

ANCHOR (Cincinnati)
ARMSTRONG & McKELVY (Pittsburgh)
BEYMER-BAUMAN (Pittsburgh)
COLLIER (St. Louis)
CORNELL (Buffalo)
DAVIS-CHAMBERS (Pittsburgh)
ECKSTEIN (Cincinnati)
FAHNESTOCK (Pittsburgh)
MORLEY (Cleveland)
RED SEAL (St. Louis)
SHIPMAN (Chicago)
SOUTHERN (St. Louis and Chicago)

Get the National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

Mix them (for color only) with strictly pure white lead, and you will have the best paint that it is possible to put on a building.

These brands of strictly pure White Lead and the National Lead Co.'s Tinting colors are for sale by the best dealers in paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

THE NEW POSTAL CARD.

It Will Probably Come Into Use About July 1.

A new postal card for use in foreign correspondence will be introduced in the postoffices throughout the country on July 1 next. It is really a double postal card, and the principal object of its introduction is to enable correspondents to prepay answers by post. This could not be done with letters and stamps, as those of the latter issued by this government cannot be used in sending mail from other countries to this.

The new card will do away with that trouble. Attached to the card on which the original message is written is a duplicate, folded over. The one receiving the card promptly tears off the duplicate, and returns it with the answer. The new cards will be sold for four cents each, and can be sent to all foreign countries in the Postal Union.

THE SPRING OF THE YEAR.

The robins are singing,
Green grasses are springing,
The bluebird's sweet song you may hear;
The south-wind is blowing,
No more we'll have snowing,
Because 'tis the spring of the year.

The brooklets are flowing,
The daffodils blowing,
The skies are now blue and clear;
The birds are all nesting,
The earth has done resting,
Because 'tis the spring of the year.
—Agnes Godfrey Gay, in Kindergarten.

* * * *

The base ball crank chases
In dreams, balls and bases,
And the voice of the fan you may hear
In office and highway,
In bar-room and by-way,
Because 'tis the spring of the year.

The fisherman's blowing,
And the fever is growing,
For they're coming from far and from near,
The startling fish story,
In all its old glory,
Because 'tis the spring of the year.

WAPAKONETA.

Social, Personal and General Mention.

Wapakoneta, O., May 30.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moser, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Blume attended the May musical festival at Cincinnati this week.

Postmaster David Davis returned from a meeting of the grand lodge, K. of P., at Columbus, where he was a delegate from Duchouquet lodge of this place.

Charles Schmehl was quite seriously injured by a falling brick at the store of Meyer & Koch.

WAVES MOUNTAIN HIGH—

Or somewhat less—threaten, during a storm, to engulf the venturous voyager on the tempestuous Atlantic. Sometimes he is torn with deep despair at such a juncture, sometimes he is rather glad of it. The latter condition of mind obtains when he is sea sick. The diabolical qualms which he has undergone, and which are now aggravated ten fold by the pitching of the ship, render him in a measure indifferent to his fate. This picture is scarcely exaggerated, as people who have been violently sea sick will assure you. Travelers and tourists by sea and land should always be provided with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a means of counteracting sea sickness and the nervous disturbance of stomachic trouble begotten of uncomfortable transit by land or water, or unwholesome food hastily swallowed at railway stations. Emigrants should supply themselves with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a family safeguard against malaria, stomach, liver and bowel complaints, kidney trouble and rheumatism.

NINTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The democrats of the Ninth Ohio congressional district will meet in delegate convention at

Toledo, O., on Thursday, June 2, 1892, at 11 O'Clock A. M.,

For the purpose of nominating a candidate for presidential elector for said district, also to select two delegates and two alternates to represent said district at the national democratic convention to be held at Chicago, June 21 and 22, 1892. The basis of representation shall be one delegate for every two hundred votes cast for the Hon. James E. Campbell in 1891, and one for each fraction thereof of 100 or more.

This basis of representation will entitle the several counties in the district to the following number of delegates:

	Vote.	Del.
Fulton	9,720	9
Lucas	8,493	42
Ottawa	2,928	15
Wood	4,570	23

The delegates to this convention shall be chosen in the several counties in the district in such manner and at such times as the members of the county central committee of each county shall direct.

DROPPED DEAD.

Asbury Park, N. J., May 30.—Gen. Turner C. Moorehead, who commanded the first regiment that left Pennsylvania, and who was also colonel of the One Hundred and Sixtieth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, dropped dead on the porch of his Madison avenue cottage this morning. The general was apparently in the best of health up to the moment of his death. He was 80 years old and leaves a son and daughter. He also commanded a brigade that took part in the battle of Gettysburg. He was also a veteran of the Mexican war.

Although it is not claimed that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures every ill to which flesh is heir, yet, as a matter of fact, it comes nearer doing this than any other medicine ever compounded. In purifying the blood, it removes the source of nearly all disorders of the human system.

A MONKEY LINGUIST.

How He Learned the Language of Another Species.

In the room where the monkeys are kept by a dealer in Washington there is a cage containing a young white-faced cebus of more than average intelligence. On the same shelf and in an adjacent cage is the little capuchin Puck. They can easily see and hear each other through the open wire partition which separates them, there being no other obstruction. I have visited Puck for many weeks almost daily, and always supply him with food after requiring him to ask me for it in his own language.

Having but little interest in the white-face, who is very shy of me, I rarely showed him the slightest attention until within the past few weeks, when I observed him trying to utter the capuchin sound for food, which always secured for Puck a banana or some nuts. Seeing that Puck was always rewarded for uttering this sound, the little white-face began to try it, and as soon as I discovered his purpose I began to reward him in the same way, and have thus seen one step taken by a monkey in the mastery of another tongue. At first his effort was quite poor and I coul not at once decide what he meant; but practice has developed in him great proficiency, and now he speaks it almost as plainly as the capuchin himself. This was doubly interesting to me in view of the fact that I had long believed that no monkeys ever acquired the sounds of another species. I frankly admit that this one instance is alone sufficient to cause me to recede from a conclusion rendered untenable by such certain proof, the cogency of which is emphasized by the short time in which it has been accomplished; but I still regard it as a rule that monkeys do not do so.—R. L. Garner, in the Forum.
